16 More Indicted In Davey Campaign Inquiry

SECRET BILLS RETURNED ON 'ASSESSMENTS'

Franklin Grand Jury Holds Governor Responsible for 5 Per Cent Plan.

CRITICIZES 'SCHEME'

Says Plan to Collect Funds Was Hatched at Meeting Held at Mansion.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — A Franklin county special grand jury returned today 16 secret indictments in concluding a two-months' investigation of political assessments on civil service employes by managers of Gov. Martin L. Davey's third term campaign.

The number of persons named in the bills and the nature of the charges were not disclosed nor was there any indication when they would be made public.

Named 13 Others.

The grand jury previously returned 13 indictments against seven lieutenants of Governor Davey, including State Finance Director M. Ray Allison, J. Freed Bittinger, a Davey political aid, and Thomas Dye, assistant state purchasing agent.

The jury's report placed upon Governor Davey responsibility for the plan to assess state employes 5 per cent of their annual salaries, declaring:

"It is our firm conviction that the scheme to assess 5 per cent from civil service employes, in violation of existing laws, the fund so accumulated to be used, in part, for political campaign purposes, originated at the governor's mansion during a meeting called by the governor, which was attended by the heads of the various departments of the state government.

"That voluntary contributions from civil service employes would be acceptable, or words to that effect, was subsequently mentioned by the governor in one of his weekly radio talks, although that method of contributing is also clearly in violation of the laws of our state."

Hits at 'Threats.'

The grand jury asserted Ohio's public service was demoralized because civil service restrictions were widely disregarded and threats of political reprisals hung over the heads of state employes.

"Under the law, where it is practicable," continued the report, referring to constitutional provisions for a merit system, "the people said in no uncertain terms that the employe should secure and re-

Jealous, Youth Kills Sweetheart Then Surrenders

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Tony Varacalli, 25, walked into the Pitcairn police station early today, flung a bloody hunting knife on a desk and blurted out, Patrolman E. L. Locke said:

"I killed my girl with this knife."

A police cruiser car, guided by Varacalli, sped to a country lane 150 feet from a busy highway in Versailes township and found in Varacalli's automobile the body of Caroline Bacco, 21, dead of stab wounds.

Detective Frank Ritz said the girl's head lay on a blood-stained pillow and at her throat was pinned a gay green artificial flower with a blood-red center.

Varacalli related, the detective said, he killed the girl because he was jealous. Ritz said Varacalli told him he had intended to kill himself, but lost his nerve.

CHINESE HALT JAP ADVANCE ALONG YANGTZE

Tide of Battle Turns While Stubborn Army Contines to Resist Jap Drive.

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI—The tide of battle appeared today to be turning to favor the Chinese along the upper Yangtze river, after damaging attacks by Chinese warplanes.

Chinese announced that their airmen continually were raiding Japanese forces, both military and naval, below Kiukiang, which the Japanese have been unable to conquer in two weeks of bitter fighting.

Kiukiang is 135 miles from Hankow, seat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government and the ultimate objective of the Japanese offensive.

Stalled Three Days.

For three days now the Japanese have made no marked advanced, and Chinese insist their drive has been brought to a halt. Japanese were silent today.

While there was no positive evidence to support the Chinese claims, it is fairly well established that the Chinese aerial force in recent days had damaged several Japanese craft. Some in damaged condition were seen being towed down river.

The Chinese high command in Hankow asserted 45 enemy war vessels had been sunk or damaged in the last two weeks, and 19 of the ships were reported towed to Shanghai for repairs.

Japanese put forth counter claims that their bombers had punished Chinese over a wide area.

TOKYO—(INS)—Use of military force by the combined armies of Japan and Manchukuo was threatened today to repel a Soviet "invasion" of Manchukuo by a Red army detachment.

SET FOR RALLY

Sawyer to Speak in Central Park Tuesday Night.

Central park was selected today as the site for a campaign rally Tuesday night when Charles Sawyer, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, delivers the principal talk.

Arranged by the Richland county Sawyer-for-governor organization, the meeting looms as the only major political rally in the county before the Aug. 9 primary election.

G. A. Baer, chairman of the county Sawyer organization, said the Cincinnatian would be in the city Tuesday afternoon to confer with county Democratic leaders at the Mansfield-Leland hotel before the rally at 7:30 p. m.

'FORGETS' PAIR JURY INDICTED

Sheriff's Office Neglects to Notify 'Em — So They're Not at Arraignment.

Two of 10 persons indicted two days ago by the county grand jury, including a Mansfield youth under first and second degree manslaughter indictments, failed to appear for arraignment in common pleas court this morning—because the sheriff's office forgot to notify them of the hearing.

The missing were Richard Strohminger, 19, held as a result of the death of Miss Ada Kovachy, Cleveland, in an accident here June 11, and Homer Reid, Lexington, indicted for issuing checks without funds.

Only three of the prisoners appeared in court, and Judge Huston placed one on probation and continued the cases of the others.

When the judge called for Strohminger and Reid, Deputy Sheriffs Frank Robinson and Glenn Freeman a little embarrassed, explained that they had not been notified. They said a mix-up had caused the oversight.

Judge Huston ordered the officers to bring Strohminger into

LEWIS PONDERS

Considers CIO Request for Probe of UAW Dispute.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—John L. Lewis considered today a formal request for investigation by the Committee for Industrial Organization into a factional fight within the United Automobile Workers of America.

After conferring for four hours with 13 local union presidents from five Michigan and Ohio cities, Lewis said that he had been assured that "the members of the U. A. W. A. will be inclined to follow any course that might be suggested by the CIO" and made it plain that he did not approve of U. A. W. A. President Homer Martin's "purge" of his opposition.

The delegation, which claimed to represent more than 175,000 workers had asked Lewis' help in obtaining immediate reinstatement of suspended officers.

FLORENCE, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Gov. R. C. Stanford today called a detachment of National Guards to the state penitentiary to end a series of escapes.

BARKLEY SEEKS PENSION PROBE

Tells Rally Aged Warned To Vote For Chandler.

NEWPORT, Ky.—(AP)—Senator Alben W. Barkley announced he would ask for a federal investigation of the distribution of old age pension checks in Kentucky.

Barkley added to the heat of the campaign for the state's Democratic senatorial nomination with an assertion that agents of the state social security department were warning pensioners their payments would stop if they did not vote for Gov. A. B. Chandler, his opponent.

At a campaign rally here last night Barkley said he was informed the pension checks were being delivered this month by the agents instead of by mail as usual.

CLAIMS OF 110 HEIRS PROBLEM FACING COURT

How $30,000 Flowers Estate Will Be Distributed Rests on Hearing Today.

Deciding how to distribute a $30,000 estate to 110 heirs, an orphans' home and a hospital which claim shares of it was the problem that faced Probate Judge C. J. Anderson today.

The major problem, however, was to decide whether the will of Jacob Flowers, Sandusky township farmer who left the estate, or that of his widow, Mrs. Mary Flowers Bryan, should determine the distribution of the property.

Mr. Flowers died in 1918 and his widow in 1933, after she had married a second time.

The issues were to be decided at a hearing starting at 1 p. m. today in probate court, with each of the 110 heirs, or a representative, scheduled to be there to present his claim.

First Will Ruled Out.

Complications in settling the estate developed in May when the Ohio supreme court ruled out a will in which Mr. Flowers disposed of his estate to three religious organizations and the Mansfield Salvation army.

Heirs from Ohio to California immediately began to claim shares of the estate, and the Richland Trust company, trustee, and Atty. C. H. Workman located 110 persons who contended they were related to Mr Flowers.

In addition to the host of heirs, the Good Samaritan hospital, Galion, and the Methodist Children's home at Worthington, filed their claims, contending that they were bequeathed the residue of the estate by Mrs. Flowers.

Mr. Flowers' property passed to his widow at his death, with the request that she have the use of it during her lifetime

Searchers Find Italian Plane in Which 20 Lost Lives.

ROME —(AP)— Wreckage of an Italian airliner which plunged into the sea 70 miles off Sardinia carrying 20 persons to their deaths was found today by searching planes.

Victims of the biggest disaster in Italian civil aviation included six women and a girl among the 16 passengers and four crewmen.

The plane, "I-Volo" of the Ala Littoria Line, left Cagliara, Sardinia, for Rome yesterday.

The official report of the accident said the seas was blanketed by thick fog and blamed the disaster on a "forced landing without visibility."

Japan Makes Cancellation of 1940 Olympic Games Official

(By United Press)

TOKYO—Japan officially gave up the 1940 international Olympic games today. The cabinet decided that the war in China had cost too much in men and money to permit expenditure for athletic events.

The Japanese Olympics committee drafted a formal notice of cancellation which will be delivered to the International Olympic Congress.

But the Olympics will be held in 1940 just the same, despite wars in China and Spain and trouble in Europe.

It was quite likely that Finland, a sponsor of many international athletic events in the last 20 years, would get them. Finland made a strong bid for the games after Berlin played host in 1936, but the Japanese—backed by Germany and Italy, her allies in anti-communism—won out.

The United States made an unofficial bid for the 1940 games through Grover Whalen of the New York world fair, but it seemed almost certain that it would be unsuccessful. London also made a bid, but her invitation appeared weak in the face of Finland's.

Go Ahead On Cut-Off Job Despite Suits

Highway Officials Ready to Let Contract, Expect Paving to Start Soon.

Although three property owners with land bordering the new Windsor cut-off on route 42 have filed suits against the state highway department for more money for right-of-way easements on their properties, highway officials said today they planned to start construction of the project as scheduled.

Boyd Wierman, state highway engineer in Richland county, announced that the paving contract probably would be awarded next week to the W. H. Ringwald and Sons company, Chillicothe, low bidder, and that work would begin soon after that.

Says It's 'Far From Settled.'

Meanwhile, James W. McMillen, one of the protesting property holders, asserted that "the matter is far from settled so far as highway easements are concerned."

McMillen, who refused to accept the highway department's offer for an easement on his land, filed a suit in common pleas court asking the court to determine the amount of compensation due him. Similar actions were started by Anton Reiser, jr., and Willard Hale, who turned down the highway department's offers.

McMillen said his major complaint was against the diverting

EMPLOYES FORM INCORPORATION

Westinghouse Workers Set Up New Organization as Bargaining Unit.

A new move to organize employes outside the ranks of national labor unions was launched today with the incorporation of the Westinghouse Employes Association, Inc., by three company employes.

Announcement of the incorporation was made in dispatches from Columbus today.

Listed as incorporators are Charles B. Schoenman, R. D. 4, Mansfield; S. G. Bushman, 173 Wolfe avenue, and Chauncey Butterfield, 308 South Diamond street. All are Westinghouse employes.

Attorney W. J. Bissman filed the incorporation papers for the group.

Bissman said membership in the association would be open to Mansfield Westinghouse employes, and that it was the intention of the organizers to set up the association as a bargaining unit for employes of the company.

As yet, he said, there is no extensive membership, but he said a meeting would be held next week to set up an organization and plan a membership campaign.

Recently, Westinghouse management agreed voluntarily after complaints made to the National Labor Relations board by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, to disestablish the Industrial Relations committee as a bargaining unit.

TICKER TAPE SHOWER GIVEN SPEED FLIERS

Blaring Auto Horns, Cheers of Multitude Ring in Ears of Record Smashers.

WELCOMED BY LA GUARDIA

Hughes, Globe-Circling Aids Take Rest; Hepburn Gets a Telephone Call.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Amid a swirl of ticker tape from skyscraper windows, blaring automobile horns and the cheers of the multitude, Howard Hughes and his four 'round-the-world record-breaking fliers were acclaimed as heroes by New York today in a reception climaxed by an official welcome by Mayor F. H. La Guardia at city hall.

It was the most enthusiastic reception since Charles A. Lindbergh came home 11 years ago after his epic non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Crowds Line Streets.

Hughes and his gallant crew, who circled the globe in the amazing time of three days 19 hours and 14 minutes, rode up lower Broadway in modest triumph from the Battery to city hall plaza to the accompaniment of reverberating bursts of applause from the dense throng of men, women and children who lined the "canyon of conquerors."

Lower Broadway, with its stone forest of skyscrapers, presented a festive, holiday air as flags and bunting flapped in the breeze from windows of the tall buildings. Large "Welcome Home" signs dotted the line of march.

The weather was bright and sunshiny, after an early morning rain.

Mingled with literally thousands of American flags were many orange, blue and white world's fair banners.

Three thousand police were on duty over the comparatively short route from the Battery to city hall. Bluecoats marched and countermarched and bright red motorcycles carrying police officers dashed about, amusing the crowd as it waited for the processional of world's fair automobiles to pass.

Talks to Hepburn.

Hughes spent the night at the Drake hotel. He awoke at 9:40 a. m., ordered copies of all the New York papers of yesterday and today, put in a trans-Atlantic phone call and also talked to his romantic heart interest, Katharine Hepburn of the movies, by telephone.

His four companions—Lieutenant Thomas Thurlow of the Army Air corps, Harry P. M. Connor, Richard Stoddart and Edward Lund—spent the night at the Hampshire house on Central Park south, not far from Hughes' hotel.

Shortly after noon Hughes left the Drake by car for the Hampshire house. There Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the World's Fair corporation, who is credited with having persuaded Hughes to

FLIGHT MAPPED

British Plane Leaves Next Week on Atlantic Hop.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng.—(AP)—Imperial Airways announced today that the Mercury, upper component of the Mayo Pick-A-Back airplane, would take off from Foynes, Ireland, next Wednesday for Botwood, Newfoundland, on its first transatlantic flight.

The Mercury is to be launched from her lower and larger component, the Maia, about 1 p. m. E. S. T., hoping to land at Botwood in daylight, or if fuel is sufficient to continue to Montreal.

The Maia will take off from the river Shannon with the Mercury locked to her back. The machines probably will separate at about 2,000 feet, Mercury heading out across the Atlantic while the Maia returns to her base. Later it is expected the Maia will fly to Montreal to launch the Mercury for the return.

Searchers Fail to Find Haven Of Injured Mountain Climber

(By United Press)

SALT LAKE CITY—Two rescue parties returned from the summit of Mount Olympus early today and announced that they had been unable to locate Roger Carney, 24, who lay with a broken leg on a bed of twigs and grass somewhere near the mountain top.

Deputy Sheriff George Beckstead said that rescue parties would renew their search as soon as they had taken a short rest.

Physicians warned the searchers that infection might complicate Carney's condition unless he was found soon. He had lain throughout the night in his improvised bed, protected from the cold mountain air only by the light summer clothing that he wore when he and two companions set out yesterday.

Carney, Harold Rapp, 23, and Brayton White, 24, had intended to scale the mountain, spend a brief time at the summit and then return home. But Carney fell into a 15-foot ravine, breaking his leg just above the ankle.

Two rescue groups of a dozen men each spent the entire night trying to find Carney and Rapp, who had remained behind when White made a dangerous, two-hour journey down the mountain side to get help.

Flash flares and smoke and fire signals were used futilely.

Mohicans Win Behind Boyer

Chevrolet Hurler Yields Only Two Hits.

Al Boyer fashioned a pitching masterpiece as the Mohican Chevrolets defeated the Friendly House, 7 to 5, in a city recreation Senior league game at Liberty park yesterday.

Boyer gave up only two hits as he set 14 Friendly House players down via the strike-out route. He issued only two walks.

His teammates obtained only three hits of the deliveries of Contra and Banks, but they made good use of nine walks. The Chevrolets scored five runs in the first inning.

Runyan, Picard, Hines and Snead Battle In P. G. A. Semi-Finals

SHAWNEE - ON - DELAWARE, Pa.—(U.P.)—Little Poison and the Candy Kid—the Blond Bomber and Sluggin' Sammy.

Paul Runyan vs. Henry Picard and Jimmy Hines vs. Sammy Snead. That was the line up today for 36-hole battles in the semi-finals of the 21st National P. G. A. golf tournament.

For all but one of them—Runyan, "Poison" to his golfing brethren because of the way he handles his crisp irons—it was a new experience being so close to the championship and the $1,100 that goes with it. Runyan won the championship in 1934.

Hines, 33-year-old hard hitting blond from New York, has played in five P. G. A.'s and never gone beyond the quarter finals.

Snead, an equally hard hitter from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., has played in only one, last year, when he lost to Harold (Jug) McSpaden in the third round. Picard, the chocolate man from Hershey, Pa., has played in five.

His best effort was last year when he went to the quarter-finals and lost to McSpaden after a vicious 39-hole battle.

Snead, the leading money winner of this year's campaigning, has the best mark of them all in this tournament. He starts today with a record of 14 strokes under par for 111 holes. Yesterday he crushed Jim Foulis of Chicago 8 and 7.

Hines has had tough going all the way, numbering among his victims Denny Shute, the linksman who had walked off with this title the last two times out. Yesterday, Jimmy whipped Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., 2 and 1.

Runyan and Picard likewise have had anything but smooth sailing. Runyan whipped his pal, Horton Smith, 4 and 3, yesterday and Picard had a whale of a fight on his hands before he humbled Gene Sarazen, three times a P. G. A. winner, to the tune of 3 and 2.

Bissman company club wielders continued in first place in the tight News-Journal Class B golf league by winning over the Elks, 3 to 0, at Possum Run yesterday.

Two points of the match are in doubt due to a postponement, but the scores registered by the wholesale company representatives were sufficient to enable them to retain the van by the margin of a point.

The Mansfield Metal Vaults reduced the lead by the Bissman pellet clouters by one point by defeating the Central Fruit & Grocery company team, 4 to 1.

The News-Journal quartet moved into third place by edging the Ohio Public Service team, 3 to 2. The Auxter Motors won over Al's Kicks, 2 to 1, with a pair of points hanging in the balance because of a postponement.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, who is a member of The News-Journal club, annexed medal honors yesterday with a 37.

The only other golfers to break 40 yesterday were Frank Vild of the Auxter Motors, who registered a 38, and Fay of O. P. S. with a 39.

A trio of 41's by Tony Schadek, Adam Brandt and Nick Schemine gave the league leaders their margin of victory over the lodgemen. Fay Strome and Alex Davis cracked out 41's to lead the Vaults to their triumph.

Tigers Round Athletic Club

Obtain Undisputed Grip on League Lead.

The Tigers held the undisputed lead in the city recreation Intermediate baseball league today by virtue of their 3 to 1 victory over the White Sox at the Fairground. The victory put the Bengals a half game in front of the idle Athletics with whom they were tied prior to yesterday's game.

Pitching again featured the game yesterday, with Frieheit holding the losers to two hits. The Tigers only secured four off Pappas, who whiffed seven.

The Yankees made the only two hits they obtained count as they trimmed the Senators, 2 to 1. Winbigler struck out 11, but walked six Yanks. Hazlett permitted the Senators three hits.

Baseball's First 99 Years

By GARDNER SOULE

Indians Trim All-Stars, 6-3

Collect 11 Hits Off A. A. Stars Before 12,277.

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—The Indianapolis Indians proved again here last night that one good team is better than a lot of good players by winning the fifth annual American association all-star game, 6-3, from the pick of the other seven association clubs.

Before a record-breaking crowd of 12,277, Indianapolis found four of the league's best pitchers for 11 hits while three Indian hurlers scattered seven safeties and their teammates backed them up with tight fielding highlighted by two double plays.

It was the fourth time since the all-star game was born in 1934 that the host team—league leader when the place is decided upon a little more than a week in advance—has beaten the aggregation which baseball writers elect yearly from the rest of the circuit.

Minneapolis won the first two games. Milwaukee, so far the only team to lose to the all-stars, went down to defeat in 1936. Last year the all-stars lost to Columbus, whose manager, Burt Shotton, piloted the team which played Indianapolis last night. Both sides played errorless ball.

The crowd topped by eight persons the previous record set last year. All the players were given trophies. George Johnson, an umpire for 25 years, got a special one.

LOUIS TO HOLD TITLE FIVE YEARS SAYS TUNNEY

CHICAGO—(AP)—Gene Tunney believes that boxing's heavyweight championship crown is lodged securely on the head of Joe Louis—"at least for five more years and probably longer than that."

The former heavyweight titleholder, who came here preparatory to addressing educators attending a Purdue university summer session, is convinced that none of the current crop of fighters is capable of whipping the Brown Bomber, he said last night.

DeLuxe Cabs, Beeber-Ross Tangle Today

Two of the city's stronger unaffiliated softball clubs will come to blows at Johns park at 6 p. m. today when the DeLuxe Cabs tangle with the Beeber-Ross team.

These two clubs have been winning consistently against stronger Mansfield outfits, and today marks their first meeting of the year.

The lineups of the two clubs include the outstanding softball performers in the city.

Manager Ben Feeman of the Cabs will start either Frisbee or Bauer on the mound today, with Valentine behind the plate.

The Beeber-Ross club is expected to go on the field with Jimmy Fullager throwing them up to the plate.

GROVE'S ARM EXPECTED TO RECOVER COMPLETELY

BOSTON—(AP)—The mysterious ailment that numbed Bob (Lefty) Grove's aging but crafty pitching arm was diagnosed tentatively today as an intermittent claudication (a spasm of blood vessels) by Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, the Red Sox physician.

Dr. O'Brien has been unable to discover any basic disorder as yet. Although he described it as "unusual," Dr. O'Brien reported to General Manager Eddie Collins that indications pointed to a complete recovery.

Guns For 13th Win

Allen Faces A's in 1st Game of Philly Series Today; Harder Halts Nats.

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.)—Johnny Allen, fiery ace of the Cleveland Indians mound corps, went after his 13th straight victory here today as he opposed the Philadelphia Athletics in the opening contest of a three-game series.

Allen was balked in an attempt to make it 13 successive triumphs last Sunday when he failed to go the route against the St. Louis Browns. He was to be opposed by Lynn Nelson in today's engagement.

Take Final Game.

Cleveland managed to salvage one game from the series with the Washington Senators when they won the concluding argument yesterday by a 5 to 1 count.

Mel Harder, the veteran right-hander who has shown signs of making a successful comeback after early season disasters, was in the box for the Tribe.

Harder pitched masterful ball throughout. He gave the Senators only eight hits and had a shutout in his grasp until the ninth when Al Simmons nicked him for a home run. Up to the ninth Harder had permitted only one runner to reach second base.

While Harder set the Washington players back with regularity, his mates hammered "Dutch" Leonard, Joe Krakaukas and Pete Appleton for 13 hits.

Heath Hits Homer.

The Indians took the lead in the first inning when Lyn Lary beat out an infield hit and Rookie Jeff Heath hammered a home run over right field wall. Cleveland added single counters in the fourth, sixth and eighth rounds.

Every man in the Indians' lineup except Third Baseman Ken Keltner secured at least one hit.

Hangs Up Second Straight Shutout to Stop New York

Reformed Infielder Hurls Cincinnati to Seventh Victory In a Row to Close Second-Place Gap.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—"Bucky" Walters, a reformed infielder with a whip-like right arm, today had justified the outlay of $60,000 in cash and players which the Cincinnati Reds made to secure his services from the Philadelphia Phillies a month ago.

Walters turned in one of the season's finest mound performances here yesterday as he hurled the Reds to a 1 to 0 victory over the New York Giants. The triumph was Cincinnati's seventh in a row and left them only 3½ games behind the second-place Terrymen.

Third In Row.

After getting off to a wobbly start in a Red uniform Walters has shown brilliantly of late. Yesterday's triumph was his third in a row and his second straight shutout. He downed the Chicago Cubs 11 to 0 last Saturday.

The lean right-hander had the pressure on him from start to finish and he courageously bore down on every pitch. Walters permitted the Giants only five hits, but was forced to pitch himself out of two very dangerous holes. Aided by brilliant support afield he was capable of the task both times.

Cincinnati scored the contest's lone run in the first inning when Wally Berger scratched a single down the third base line. Then the Giants committed two costly errors. The usually reliable Joe Moore dropped Ival Goodman's fly to left field and Berger stopped at second. Frank McCormick then tapped to the box and Harry Gumbert threw wildly into center field on an attempted force play and Berger romped home.

Cincinnati was able to garner only three more safeties off Gumbert in the next six innings and none off his successor, Dick Coffman.

Walters was in his first tight spot in the sixth when Dick Bartell walked and Jim Ripple singled to put runners on first and third with none out. The threat was quelled when Mel Ott flied out to Harry Craft and the speedy little centerfielder doubled Bartell at the plate with a perfect throw.

Threatens In Eighth.

New York threatened again in the eighth when Pinch Hitter Johnny McCarthy opened the inning by walking. Seeds sacrificed. Bartell then dropped a pop fly double into centerfield, but McCarthy was held at third base. Jim Ripple was retired on a pop foul and Ott passed intentionally to fill the bases. Hank Lieber left the runners stranded when his fly to short left was taken by Billy Myers.

In the closing game of the series today Johnny Vander Meer, rookie ace, was to work for Cincinnati and Hal Schumacher for the Giants.

Sore Arm Plague Claims Another Ace.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The sore arm plague, which struck down Dizzy and Paul Dean, Schoolboy Rowe, and Van Mungo, has claimed another ace today—the illustrious Lefty Grove, mainstay of the Red Sox pitching corps.

Grove, who has won more victories than any other hurler in the major leagues, hung up his 271st triumph yesterday, but in doing so stalked from the mound in the fifth inning complaining that his pitching arm was dead and his fingers numb.

What the outcome of the massage and hospital treatment may be will not be known definitely for several days, but when a 38-year-old pitcher comes up with a paralyzing kink, it often means the end of his career.

With the status of Grove rests the chances of the Red Sox to stay up in the American league race for Lefty has won 14 games this season and together with Jimmy Foxx is the reason the Sox are only three and a half games off the pace.

The Sox yesterday took a 12 to 1 decision from the Tigers, aided by home runs by Foxx, who slammed out No. 24, and one by Pinky Higgins. Before the game started Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers went to his hotel suffering dizzy spells, but denied it was a recurrance of a head injury suffered when he was "beaned" by Bump Hadley last year.

The Yankees maintained their half-game lead by taking a 5 to 4 contest from the Browns when rain halted proceedings in the seventh. Tommy Henrich contributed his 10th homer as the Yanks hung on the Browns their ninth straight loss. Despite Bob Johnson's homer, the Athletics lost to the White Sox 9 to 8 as the Sox out-hit the A's 12 to 11.

The National league race tightened appreciably as the Reds made it two straight over the Giants, while the Pirates won from Brooklyn, 3 to 2, in 11 innings. Lee Handley tripled and scored on Lloyd Waner's single in the 11th to give Jim Tobin his sixth win and put the Pirates a half a game ahead of the second place Giants who fell before the Reds, 1 to 0.

The Cubs snapped a six-game losing streak by taking a double header from the Phillies, 3 to 0, on Clay Bryant's three-hit pitching, and 5 to 1 on Bill Lee's five hitter. With Lou Fette winning his fifth game, the Bees took a slugging fest from the hapless Cardinals 10 to 5.

DUEL IN 'MIDGETS'

CLEVELAND—(INS)—A duel between Al Bonnell of Erie, Pa., and Howard Dauphin, of Detroit, is expected to be the feature of Sunday's midget auto racing program at Sportsman's park, south of here.

MEDALIST BEATEN

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(INS)—Burleigh Jacobs of Milwaukee, medalist in the early round of the western amateur golf tournment here, was on the sidelines today, eliminated from the event by Barney Hunt of Columbus.

Sports Review

JUST SHORTS: Lou Gehrig is still taking a ribbing over his appearance in a Western movie last winter. The Yankee slugger was galloping futiley into short right for a foul ball recently when some fan yelled, "Lasso it, Lou!" . . . The Cards probably don't miss Dizzy Dean, but the front office misses the fans. Only 1,410 customers saw the Cards in action the other day to set an all-time low record for Sportsmen park. . . . From Minneapolis comes the report that you won't see any more of those 1934-35-36 golden Gophers for a long, long time. But rival coaches are taking these reports with grains of salt . . . With 11,000,000 players, of both sexes, and 63,000,000 spectators at league games alone, softball rather than baseball, is now the great national game, softball followers contend.

Cincinnati's Mrs. Weil Seeks Fourth Title In Five Years

By FRITZ HOWELL

AKRON—(AP)—Only blond 19-year-old Janet Shock of Dayton stood between Mrs. Burt Weil of Cincinnati and her fourth championship in five years as they teed off today at the Portage club in the 36-hole finals of the 19th annual Ohio women's golf tournament.

Three times Miss Shock, rated the grandest young player in the Buckeye brigade, has attempted to halt Mrs. Weil's victory parade, but each time the veteran star shunted her aside

Mrs. Weil scored a grand slam through 1934, 1935 and 1936. Last year she lost to Isabel Ogilvie of Cleveland in the semi-finals.

Loses Two Holes.

The Cincinnati veteran is atop her game this year, for in three matches she lost but two holes. She lost the first hole to Mrs. Warren Billings of Akron in the first round but won 6 and 4 Wednesday she shut out Defending Champion Sally Elson of Columbus, Sally failing to win a hole as she dropped a 5 and 4 decision, and yesterday she defeated Mary K. Browne of Cleveland 6 and 5, Mrs. Browne winning only the first hole.

Including the qualifier, Miss Shock was 16 over par for 75 holes up to today, while Mrs. Weil was 13 over for 59 holes.

While Mrs. Weil won her way into today's finals in easy fashion, Miss Shock had had a couple of tough matches She beat Isabel Ogilvie of Cleveland, finalist last year, by 5 and 3 in the first round, but was forced to 23 holes by Massillon's Eva Shorb in the second round, and to 19 holes yesterday by Mrs. Linton Fallis of Toledo.

PROFIT-TAKING INVADES MART, SLACKENS PACE

Wall Street Attaches Credence to Steel Wage Reports Despite Official Denials.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Revival of rumors about steel wage developments brought a stronger tone to the stock market today after a slow start.

Leaders moved up easily and scored gains running to more than 2 points before profit-taking checked the rise. Trading was quiet throughout.

Wall Street continued to attach considerable credence to the steel wage reports though official circles denied that developments were imminent.

Steels and motors set the pace for the rise after yesterday's erratic gyrations. Bethlehem and U. S. Steel each were up nearly 2 points before giving ground.

In the motors Chrysler advanced more than 2 points, giving up part of this later, and General Motors fractionally. Oil shares steadied after a sluggish start. Gains were small.

The railroad list moved ahead under the leadership of Atchison and Union Pacific. Gains ran to a point.

ROARS TRIBUTE TO HUGHES, AIDS

New York Showers Fliers With Ticker Tape in Parade Down 'Hero's Lane.'

fly around the world, was waiting to escort the five fliers to the Battery. Years ago Whalen was New York's "official greeter," and his activities today put him back in a pleasant and familiar role.

The tired, unshaven airmen were proclaimed by a surging mob upon returning to Floyd Bennett airport yesterday. The quintet finally were escorted to automobiles and Manhattan spots of refuge.

Despite fatigue and hunger, Hughes took time to discuss the flight thoroughly at the home of Whalen. He conceded that the hop from New York to Paris was the most perilious.

"I was mainly concerned with getting there because there was too much early fuel consumption," admitted the 33-year-old Texan.

The first moments of suspense came during the take-off from Floyd Bennett field, Hughes disclosed. The overladen ship had to be pushed to a ground speed of 125 miles an hour before sufficient speed to lift it off the runway was obtained.

"I took off with a 25,600-pound load while the most I ever tested the plane at, with water ballast in California, was 24,000 pounds," said Hughes.

Another anxious phase of the trip was the take-off from Yakutsk, Siberia.

Menaced by Mountains.

"It's a damn good thing I didn't try to fly out of Yakutsk at night," said Hughes, who did all the piloting except when the robot was used.

Maps of Siberia he possessed showed mountain peaks of 6,500 when they actually ranged to 9,000 feet, stated the lanky pilot, adding:

"They were all wrong and I had to draw my own maps."

Asked if he would attempt another world flight at some future time, Hughes shot back:

"Why?"

"That's the best answer in the world," added Whalen.

Hughes left the Whalen home presumably to retire. Instead, he proceeded to the town house of actress Katharine Hepburn with whom his name has been linked romantically. Finding photographers at the Hepburn doorstep, he proceeded to the hotel and instructed the clerk that he didn't want to be disturbed.

Stoddart, 37-year-old radio engineer, said the flight definitely would be of value to the scientific development of radio because of the success of experimental equipment used.

Members of the crew got only three or four hours of sleep during the journey of nearly four days. They had ample canned goods for provisions and found thirst a more pressing problem than hunger.

THEATER

THERE'S a funny situation on the Hal Roach picture, "Topper Takes A Trip," which is, of course, a sequel to the successful "Topper." In the sequel Topper and his wife (Roland Young and Billie Burke) will have a quarrel and Topper will go to Paris. The original idea was for the ghosts of the first picture, Cary Grant and Constance Bennett, to go along with him and show him the sights of the city and then effect a reconciliation of the couple. But the trouble is that the male ghost gets such a salary since his recent successes that he's too expensive for an ordinary picture. Miss Bennett who once commanded the fabulous salary of $10,000 a week, gets much, much less these days, in fact her salary isn't bothering the producers at all. It has been suggested that the cheaper ghost intimate that she and her husband ghost have had a fight and she go to Paris alone with Topper. Then, at the end of the film she could fly back to her unseen ghost — without cutting Grant's salary in on the production cost.

Character Studies.

A picturization of Margaret Culkin Banning's national magazine story, "Enemy Territory," the film presents a group of brilliant featured characterizations, among them Janet Beecher as Hert Marshall's mother, who can't make up her mind between her son's first wife and his second; Juanita Quigley as the child of the divorced couple; and the three major characters themselves, Marshall as the husband, Virginia Bruce as the second wife and Mary Astor as the first wife. The story was filmed under the title of "Woman Against Woman" and the action is laid in a middle sized city where the two wives fight it out. It's an Ohio theater attraction.

About Melvyn Douglas.

Melvyn Douglas, who plays in "Fast Company" at the Madison, is a type of player that doesn't make a flash but leaves a pleasing impression. He is quiet, dignified sort of chap, sincere and convincing in his characterizations. Which may be a reflection of his private life. He is a native of Macon, Ga., son of a concert pianist, and served in the U. S. Medical Corps during the World war. He was on the stage before coming to pictures and frequently returns to it. He is married to Helen Gahagan. In "Fast Company" he plays a detective whose wife insists on sharing his career. Florence Rice plays the wife.

Renfrew of the Mounties.

"On the Great White Trail," opening at the Majestic today, is based on the series of novels by Laurie York Erskine, which have for their hero Renfrew, a sergeant of the Royal Northwest Mounted police. In the featured role is James Newill, singing player. Second honors for the series belongs to Silver King, the finely trained grandson of Strongheart, most famous of canine actors. The current episode shows Renfrew on the trail of the father of the girl he loves, but in the end when he gets his man, it isn't his prospective father-in-law. The second feature, "The Girl Said No," brings a number of Gilbert and Sullivan numbers with the stage cast. Irene Hervey and Robert Armstrong are featured.

A Curwood Story.

Kermit Maynard, not to be confused with the older Ken Maynard, is featured in "Roaring Six Guns," the James Oliver Curwood action story booked for the Ritz today and tomorrow. It is a story of outdoor life and deals with the problems of a young rancher to secure the renewal of his lease to grazing lands despite the opposition of the wealthiest landowner in the vicinity. The fact that his opponent is also the father of the girl he hopes to marry and that the father's business partner is also in love with her, complicates the plot. "Big Town Girl," the second feature, with Claire Trevor, Alan Dinehart, and Donald Woods, is a modern story of night clubs and radio studios.

Columbus Grand Jurors Hold Governor Responsible for 5 Per Cent Plan.

tain his position by reason of his fitness and merit, but it is most apparent that the only civil service employe who is secure in his or her position is the one who has demonstrated the fact that he or she is a political asset.

"We find that a civil service employe today and for some time past is little better than a slave."

Asserting civil service workers do not receive "fancy salaries," the jury added that the reported five per cent Davey assessment was "not only unreasonable but heartless."

The report quoted an unnamed "young lady" employe as testifying:

"It is difficult for a girl to buy her food, clothing and pay her rent on $75 a month and be respectable."

The jury estimated that an assessment of five per cent on state employes' annual salaries would have produced $1,200,000 and commented that only a small part of that amount "could have been properly spent" for campaign purposes.

"In many instances payments were made," the report added, "not voluntarily, not as a free will offering but because the unfortunate employe felt that unless he did contribute his position would be abolished. Such a situation is a travesty, to say the least of it."

Inadequate appropriations to the civil service commission, said the report, were partly responsible for a breakdown in the merit system.

The report condemned the practice of abolishing position for stated "economy reasons" as frequently used for a subterfuge to place political appointees in classified service jobs. It also said the spirit of merit laws was violated in several thousand instances through "provisional" appointments.

Such temporary appointments are valid for only 90 days but, the grand jury found, state department heads repeatedly re-appoint the "provisionals" and circumvent the statutes, partly because the commission does not have sufficient funds for examining candidates and making up eligible lists for the jobs.

The report also criticized the Davey administration for requiring civil service workers to do political campaigning, circulating petitions, acting as ward workers on election days, attending political meetings and buying subscriptions to Democratic publications.

"As part of our report," said the jurors, "we submit the following findings, cherishing the hope that when the great body of the people of the state of Ohio awakens and appreciates the conditions that in fact exist within their commonwealth, they will arise in their might, smite those who are responsible for such conditions and see to it that 'their house is put in order'."

EVERY FARMER
is invited to see a REAL Combine Work

The McCormick - Deering No. 60 Harvester-Thresher Will Be Demonstrated on

Lewis Farm, 2 Miles North of Mansfield on Route No. 13. First Farm North of Airport. TUESDAY, JULY 18th, 1938, All Afternoon

Here is the opportunity to see the McCormick-Deering 6-foot No. 60 Harvester-Thresher work under actual field conditions.

See the quality of work it does regardless of the condition of the crop.
See how clean it threshes.
So how much grain it saves.
See the value built into it.

We want you to see this demonstration. We are holding this demonstration to prove to you that the McCormick-Deering No. 60 is all we claim for it. We want you to see it in action before you make an investment in a combine in the future—this demonstration will help you get the most out of such an investment.

This combine will be powered by F-14 and F-20 Tractors.

We believe the McCormick-Deering No. 60 is the BEST SMALL COMBINE on the market. Come to this demonstration and judge for yourself.

PAM—A Magician? By A. W. Brewerton

EXCUSE ME, MY DEAR, I DIDN'T MEAN TO INTERRUPT YOUR PHONE CALL — I THOUGHT IT MIGHT BE FOR ME!
OH — THAT — THAT'S QUITE ALL RIGHT, COLONEL CAREY! — WE HAD FINISHED —
NOW — HOW IN THE WORLD DID THAT MAN KNOW THE COLONEL JUST ARRIVED?
7-15
IT — IT'S SPOOKY! — HE MUST BE A MAGICIAN! — WONDER IF HE KNOWS PAUL IS OUT OF TOWN TOO? —
BUT THERE MUST HAVE BEEN A STRONG NOTE OF APPEAL IN THE MAN'S VOICE FOR — — HERE I'D DECIDED TO TELL THE COLONEL ALL ABOUT IT — AND — THAT MAN AGAIN BEGS ME TO TELL NO ONE! OH — I WISH DAVID WERE HERE — I — I'D CERTAINLY TELL HIM!
THAT INCIDENT WAS RATHER "SPOOKY"! PERHAPS THE MAN ON THE WIRE HEARD THE COLONEL SPEAK! HE MUST HAVE KEEN EARS!

AUTHOR WRITES OF CHANGES IN PLANTERS LIVES

'The Handsome Road' Among New Fiction Additions at Public Library.

Gwen Bristow, author of "Deep Summer," has written another novel of the planters of Louisiana, which she calls "The Handsome Road." The story deals with the changes in their lives wrought by the Civil war. This is one of the new additions in fiction to the Public library this week.

The "find" of the year for the Putnam company is "The Long View" by Hilda Morris. It is the story of Asher Allan, a Quaker boy who was too young to fight at the battle of Antietam, and who lives to see his family fortune wiped out in the crash of 1929. The novel portrays the great changes in the American scene during the past 80 years.

Andre Maurois' "The Thought Reading Machine," is a witty tale of a Frenchman who comes to America as a guest lecturer at Westmouth university. The professor and his wife find American university life quite astounding. The introduction of a psychograph invented by one of his colleagues complicates the plot.

Other new fiction this week includes "Sixteen Hands" by Croy; "Juice of The Pomegranate," by Dell; "The Chink In The Armour," Lowndes; "The Cairo Garter Murders," Mason; and "Splendid Fairing," by Holme.

Writes Review of Fashions.

Mrs. Carrie A. Hall has written an interesting, informative and amusing review of the follies and foibles of fashion from 1866 to 1936, in her "From Hoopskirts to Nudity." Photographs by Mary Ellen Everhard form a pictorial panorama of fashions. The author writes from actual experience, having spent 50 years designing and making 20,000 dresses.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl ably presents the merits of the airship and explains its important place in the commercial field in "What About The Airship?" He sketches the history of lighter-than-air craft and defends the gas ships against the numerous criticism, thus challenging the judgment of government men.

"The Voyage of The Chelyuskin" is an exciting account of the polar expedition of this ship in 1933 and 1934, which was made to study the Soviet Arctic. The book contains chapters written by various members of the party.

"Sentinel of The Coasts" is the log of a lighthous engineer, George Rockwell Putnam, written to make available the human side of the government Lighthouse service. Beginning with his boyhood on the Mississippi, he tells of an adventurous life, going to Greenland with Peary, in the Bering Sea to the Philippines, and finally traveling over the United States as commissioner of Lighthouses.

Also on the non-fiction list this week are:

"Three Years of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration," by Morse, Davis and Black.

"Historic Costuming," by Truman.

"Skyways," by Mitchell.

"Bob Becker's Pet Book."

"Children's Toys of Bygone Days," Grober.

"Colour in the Garden," Stebbing.

"Art and Artists," Sparkes

"Christopher Marlowe." Bakeless.

"Ensembles Mobiliers," vol 2, by Maurice Dufrene.

"History of French Masculine Costume," by Paul Louis de Giafferri.

"Portrait Gallery," by Brown.

WHAT DOCTORS AND SCIENCE LEARNED ABOUT

Cosmetics Health and Beauty

Modern medical research and the experiences of allergists, skin specialists and physicians have established the fact that certain women are sensitive to various substances which do not affect some people. Such substances, generally known as irritants or allergens cause unfavorable reactions which if not checked may lead to serious irritation and infection.

Just as science knows that many pollens produce hay fever in sensitive persons, it knows too, that numerous substances regularly used in many cosmetics may create an irritation or an eruption of the skin. Women so afflicted are wise therefore to follow the advice of doctors who alone are competent to prescribe corrective measures for general and skin health.

Why Doctors Recommend AR-EX COSMETICS

AR-EX Cosmetics were originally conceived and developed through the cooperation and counsel of physicians specializing in Allergy and Diseases of the Skin. These beauty aids have been subjected to careful trial on sensitive patients by many members of the medical profession. It is natural therefore that these doctors and many others recommend AR-EX Cosmetics as products of high standard and sold with an appreciation of esthetics in cosmetics.

LOVE IN DANGER

By KATHRYN BEMIS

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER V

He looked startled, opened his mouth as if to speak. But she was whirled away in the arms of Roger Paine, who had just come up. She started violently a moment later. There was a distinct bulge under the handkerchief protruding from Roger's breast pocket! Roger Paine, the exemplary young man! Did he also carry—pearls? If so—what did it signify?

There was no pleasure for Ray in dancing after this. Even her sense of rhythm was ruined with her mind in such a turmoil. Her feet began to drag like chunks of lead.

"I don't feel like dancing," she said vaguely.

"That suits me. Let's go out on the balcony," he said, glad of the opportunity to be alone with her. "I'll get your wrap."

He hurried away and when he returned laid her cape over her soft white shoulders. They went outside. The sharp breeze from the north was acute warning of wintry blasts already on the way. She shivered, drew the ermine collar tightly about her neck.

"There's another shooting star!" she exclaimed. "I've never seen so many in one evening. What does it mean?"

She was trying to be casual, but all the time she was perturbed about that bulge in Roger's pocket. She had known Roger all her life. They had played kissing games at childhood parties. He had been her first beau at fourteen and now was a good friend. Yet she wondered if she dared to question him about thieves and loot and sundry things. Then she suddenly realized that she hesitated because she feared to implicate Frank Armstrong. This was idiocy.

"You're very well groomed tonight, Roger," she said defiantly. "But your pockets look stuffed. If you men must oblige by lugging around ladies' compacts and cigarette cases, why not invent a special receptacle to hold them?"

She laughed sharply then, without warning, snatched the handkerchief from his breast pocket. Something glistening white in the shadowy light dropped to the brick floor. She grabbed it up as he reached for it.

She cried out, "Oh! What are these? Pearls? Why, Roger — where did you get them?"

"It's—it's nothing. Let me have them, please." He held out a hand, which she ignored.

Ray surmised that Roger Paine was flushing to the roots of his fiery red hair, but she could not be certain in the eerie light coming from the candle-lighted ballroom.

"Let me wear it," she coaxed. "I love pearls." She hoped that her voice sounded natural.

"Sorry, Ray—they're not mine."

She allowed him to take the necklace from her. The pearls look exactly like her aunt's but she dared not say so.

"I must put them in a safe place," he said unsteadily. "Excuse me—I won't be a minute."

"Oh—of course—but Roger—"

She was speaking to his fast disappearing back. He was already out of hearing.

Ray stood rooted to the spot, utterly confounded. She was shaking with nerves. Then abruptly, all the lights, both inside the house and out, flashed on again. Her sigh of relief was caught midway by a piercing scream coming from the lawn.

A hysterical feminine voice cried, "She's dead! Quick! Come out here somebody! Stella's — dead!"

Ray ran widly down the steep iron steps leading from the balcony to the rear lawn. She did not stop running until she reached the fountain by the rose garden. Other guests who had heard the cry for help simultaneously reached Maude Welch, the girl who had found Stella there.

Maude was kneeling beside Stella's inert figure. Ray was too horrified to speak. She dropped on her knees beside Stella, tried to hear her heartbeats. Others were exclaiming, "Call a doctor! Some one call a doctor! What is it? What's happened? Is she dead? What an awful thing!" Ray wished they had sense enough to keep quiet, or do something helpful.

Then Stella's eyes slowly opened. The little group surrounding her immediately became silent, waited to hear what she would say.

Stella murmured almost incoherently, "I've—I've been robbed. My necklace——"

Ray's knees shook under her as she stood upright, too dazed to know what was best to do. Frank Armstrong suddenly appeared out of the nowhere and took her arm. Her eyes wavered slowly up to his beneath a Japanese lantern. She met his ardent gaze with, "Stella's necklace—her pearls—are gone. Evidently, someone here is collecting pearls."

His short laugh roused a hot anger in her.

He said, "What? More stolen pearls! Your report to me will be interesting."

"Yes—decidedly," she flung out sarcastically. "Oh, why—why do you——" She paused, hesitating to put her suspicion into words.

"Will it be so difficult for you to make your report to me? I'm sorry."

She knew it was foolish but his voice—the rare vibrant quality of it—was making her believe in him again.

Deliberately, she pulled away from him, tried to help Hal Williams assist Stella to her feet. "What—what happened, Stella?" she inquired, trying to control her trembling.

Stella stood upright, shook out her skirts, tried to pin in her disordered short black hair. "I came out alone for a smoke. I had to make a decision—it was an offer of marriage, to be exact. Just as I reached here all the lawn lights went out and I was seized from behind—my necklace was torn from my neck. I heard him—I'm sure it was a man—run away. I've no idea who he was."

"An uninvited guest came to your party, no doubt," put in Frank Armstrong. "Guess you women will have to stop parading valuable necklaces."

"Yes," agreed Hal Williams, "that's a fact, Stella. You girls are to blame for putting temptation in the way of people who like pearls."

"I should say so!" exclaimed Glenn Judd. "All the thief seems to want is necklaces. He must have quite a collection by now! How many of you girls have lost pearls lately? It's rumored that within the past two months as many as five Mumford women have lost——"

No one paid any attention to him. Stella was being led back to the house between Hal and Ray. The others followed, frightened and bewildered.

There was much more agitated, high-pitched conversation now, distorted explanations to other guests who were pouring out of the house to learn the cause of all the commotion. Ray's teeth were chattering as she walked along. She was so jittery that every nerve in her body was a sharp, live thing. Within this crowd of innocent-appearing guests there might be a thief!

Stella was soon herself again and dancing was resumed inside the house. All doors and windows were closed and bolted by the disturbed servants. Not one of the guests now cared to brave the dangers of the outside world; especially would they not care to linger on the Clifton balcony or wander about the grounds or sit in parked cars again tonight. Dancing girls began mentally to check the bravery of their escorts; to wonder if their jewels, hastily tucked under girdles or into evening bags, were safe. The thrill of imminent danger raced through the consciousness of every member of the crowd. At any rate, the thief had added zest to this party.

Frank Armstrong brought Ray a cup of punch, which she stiffly declined. He passed it on to Kitty Beacham and seemed annoyed.

Ray was thinking, "And I'm to give him a report! If that isn't —travesty! What I should give him is—a piece of my mind!"

However, soon after this as he was driving her home, she dared not give vent to her swirling thoughts. He turned into City park, a short-cut from Stella's house to that of Mrs. Judson Hopper Yates. But apparently he was not anxious to gain time tonight, or to lose his fair companion, for he drove up beside a darkly mysterious little lake. Its surface was silvered here and there by the reflection of the big moon, which had now come from behind the clouds to hang in the sky like a luscious ripe orange.

He shut off the engine without warning, turning to Ray as the car stopped. He said in a business like tone, "Now, Miss Hunt—I'll have your report, please."

"You already know the answers, Mr. Armstrong!" Heatedly, the words tumbled out of her. "You had pearls, Roger Paine had pearls —and now, Stella's lost hers. It's all—too apparent, isn't it?"

"So Paine had pearls, did he?" His mouth curled at the corners as if he wanted to laugh.

Ray fastened her gaze on the cattails standing like trim little sentinels on the dim opposite shore of the lake. She said nothing.

He reached quickly into the pocket of his topcoat and pulled out something. "Give this to Stella tomorrow—but don't say where you got it. Remember? Be sure not to implicate me in this."

He dropped Stella's pearl necklace into Ray's cold hand.

She was seized with sudden loathing. "You—why you—" Fear and rage bound her vocal cords.

He leaned down and peered straight into her trembling face, as if to read her innermost thoughts. Then, unexpectedly, he kissed her quickly on the mouth.

HUGHES TELLS ABOUT FLIGHT IN STATEMENT

'Not Good at Speeches,' He Says, Lauds Equipment and Adds 'We're No Heroes.'

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Howard Hughes issued the following statement today in question and answer form as he left to join the parade up Broadway in his honor:

"I have written this out because I am afraid I might get nervous and not say just what I want to. You may be assured no one has written it for me. I am not very good at speeches and I have consented to make this one only because there is one thing about this flight that I would like everyone to know.

"It was in no way a stunt. It was the carrying out of a careful plan. It functioned because it was carefully planned.

"We who did it are entitled to no particular credit. We are no supermen.

"Any one of the air line pilots of this nation with any of the trained army or navy navigators and competent radio engineers in any one of our modern passenger transports could have done the same thing.

Praises Pilots.

"The air line pilots of this country who in my opinion are the finest flyers in the world, face much worse conditions night after night during every winter.

"If credit is due anyone it is due the men who designed and perfected to its present remarkable state of efficiency, the modern American flying machine and its equipment.

"If we made a fast flight, it is because many young men in this country went to engineering school, worked hard at drafting tables and designed a fast airplane and navigation and radio equipment which would keep this plane upon its course

"All we did was to operate this equipment and plane according to the instruction book accompanying the article.

"With the most advanced and newest equipment developed, my navigators and radio engineer furnished me with such accurate information as to the position of the plane at all times that I estimate for the total trip we travelled only 20 miles more than the shortest distance between the points of takeoff and landing.

"We made no unscheduled stops We arrived at every point within a few minutes of the estimated arrival time.

"We waited not one minute for weather, flying blind or above the clouds for over three-fourths of the entire trip. We did not even see the Atlantic ocean.

"The plane is fast because it is the product of over 200,000 hours of engineering effort. Flying practically every minute at the particular altitude most favorable to the plane's performance, depending on its weight, which constantly varied as fuel was consumed, at the same time changing the horsepower as weight reduced, we at no time used over 590 of the 625 horsepower per engine available for cruising.

"We arrived at every stopping point with almost 200 gallons of fuel, which was the reserve decided upon I have been asked what I considered the most important purpose served by this flight.

"I do not know that any purpose has been served However, I do feel this:

"The airplane was invented and originated in the United States. Since then the countries of Europe have taken from us one by one all of the aviation records. Until at this time the United States does not hold one major record

Refers To Records.

"The speed record for seaplanes is held by Italy The speed record for land planes by Germany. England holds the altitude record and Russia, with its magnificent flight of last year, holds the distanct record

"On top of this there has been a great deal of talk to the effect that our army and navy planes do not compare favorably with those of Europe

"Now if this flight has done a little to show that American engineers can design and American workmen can build just as fine airplanes, engines and aircraft equipment as any in the world and if it should possibly increase the sale of American planes abroad and thus create a few new jobs for American men, I shall feel well repaid for my time and effort."

SEES RELIEF CUT

Hopkins Optimistic Over Future Drop In Spending.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins is optimistic over the employment outlook, despite a year's peak of 2,853,354 persons on the relief rolls.

"I don't want to be a Pollyanna, but there are signs that the relief rolls might come down," Hopkins said late yesterday at a press conference.

3 AUTOS AND TRUCK FIGURE IN 'DOUBLE PLAY' NEAR CITY HALL

A series of events that occurred with the rapidity of a Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance double play in front of city hall today caused no little racket and brought a flock of city employes to the windows.

The "play" involved an out-of-state truck driver who was in municipal court charged with transporting property for hire without permission of the Ohio Public Utilities commission and two city employes, both of the health department

It all started when an automobile owned by Miss Rachel Mitchel, newly appointed city health nurse, broke from its parking place on West Second street midway between Mulberry and Walnut, coasted backwards down the grade and rammed the truck, owned by Eldon Lane of Indianapolis, parked on the opposite side of the street near Walnut.

Lane was in court paying a $25 fine on his plea of guilty to the charge filed by the P.U.C.O. He heard the crash and started for the door

At that moment Dr Paul Baird, assistant city-county health commissioner, drove his car down Second street and at the intersection of Walnut street there was another crash as his car collided with one driven by Elmer Gottfred, 38 Sycamore street

The net result was that Gottfred's automobile had a damaged running board and fender and Miss Mitchel's car had a badly dented body The truck and Dr Baird's machine were undamaged

In another accident yesterday afternoon police reported that a light truck owned by B M. Mahon, R. D. 4, Mansfield, broke from its parking place on North Main street, in front of the Hunt's News depot, careened dizzily down the hill, struck three cars, slightly damaging them and finally came to rest against the curb in front of 108 North Main street.

SHELBY COUNCIL FACES GAS RATE PUZZLE AGAIN

Problem Comes Up Monday, With Mayor Favoring Plan Not Yet Considered.

SHELBY—Without a gas rate ordinance for the past four months, city council will again have before its regular meeting Monday night the controversial problem of a gas rate contract with the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

A five-year "sandbag" ordinance which expired in March, city officials explained, will continue until a new rate contract is approved by the council. Rates set-up in the present contract calls for 71 cents per thousand cubic feet for the average 5,000-foot consumer per month.

In fourth months of discussion, two gas rate schedules have been given readings by the council. The first, submitted by the gas company officials, calling for rates similar to the present contract, was killed on its third reading last month.

Fails To Pass Reading.

A rate asking 69 cents for the average 5,000-consumer was submitted by Councilman Charles Swanger, leader in Shelby for lower rates, but it failed to pass its second reading earlier this month, because of a 2-2 tie vote.

In a statement today, Mayor D. B. Young said that "he favored a rate schedule submitted by the gas company a month ago." The proposal was never given a reading. The rates as set up in it are:

First 500 cubic feet for $1.00; 5.5 cents per hundred for next 4,500; 5 cents per hundred for all in excess.

Under this proposal, the average 5,000-foot consumer would pay about 69½ cents per thousand. Although favoring this schedule, Mayor Young said that "he hoped that council would not give any more readings to a gas ordinance until all the councilmen could get together to support the measure."

In previous meetings, Councilmen Swanger and Chew have supported lower rates in a three-year contract without the "sandbag" feature. Morris, Bell and Rothlisberger supported the five-year proposal, calling for similar rates to the present contract, with the controversial "sandbag" structure.

of drainage water over his property as the result of grading and ditching for the highway project. He added, however, that the property for which the highway department offered to pay him $56 was worth many times that amount in a normal market, and in comparison with prices he obtained for adjoining land.

Although 20 property holders are affected by the project, only four have refused the payment offered them for their land, Wierman pointed out.

If the highway department is unable to reach an agreement over the easement funds, money covering the appraisal value is deposited with the county clerk of courts for the property owners. They can either accept or file a request for a court hearing of their claims, according to W. K. Dean of the right-of-way division of the highway department at Columbus.

SAWYER RIPS AT DAVEY'S CLAIM OF ECONOMIES

Says Governor Fails to Tell Truth in Reference to $12,000,000 'Saving.'

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, opposing Gov. Martin L. Davey for the Democratic nomination for governor, declared today that "every department controlled by Davey showed heavy increases in operating costs during his first term, as compared to the term preceding."

He said the state auditor's report contradicted statements of Davey that he saved the taxpayers "over $12,000,000" during his first term as governor by use of the "veto axe."

"In no instance did he veto items for 'A-1 salaries' (regular state employes); nor did he veto any items in the highway or liquor departments," Sawyer asserted

Costs Greater, Claim.

Departments in which Sawyer said operating costs were higher during Davey's first term than in the preceding term of George White included highway, welfare and liquor.

Davey continued in Cleveland campaign talks his attacks on newspapers unfriendly to his administration. Referring to a "news article, editorial or cartoon" in the Plain Dealer announcing an appeal by Sawyer's campaign manager for public contributions, Davey said:

"Imagine a great newspaper appealing for campaign funds for one of the candidates. You'd think it was a charity drive or something. And what do you think this candidate is worth?

"Why, according to probate records, he is worth five or six million dollars The Plain Dealer wants the public to give campaign funds to a multi-millionaire."

Davey also referred to President Roosevelt as "a great, humane and far-sighted president."

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

THE GRAVEL PIT

I PASSED by a gravel pit, where large heaps of top soil were removed by steam shovel, so that sand and gravel might be free from undesirable clay and loam Here the monster shovel dug into the gravel bank and with two clean swoops, loaded three to four cubic yards upon a heavy, waiting dump truck

Practically all the dirt roads in many counties have been widened, graded and surfaced with this coarse gravel, applied in liberal quantities. This material does not extend throughout the state, but holds a central and an eastern course.

These steep hillsides, cut through, reveal a story older than the tallest giants of the forest, more ancient than the deepest chiseled courses of local streams, more accurate than written history.

The varied strata are laid upon there against the hillside, a perpendicular ledge fifteen feet or more wide, extending along the valley for many miles

The smooth cobblestones, the colored pebbles, hard as steel, the gritty sand all are fragments of great boulders which traveled southward over half our continent, frozen in the great ice sheet These were nature's gigantic plow, that hollowed out the lakes made hills and valleys and low course for the streams .

In this fresh-cut bank, with its various beds of gravel, loam and sand, one reads how the ice sheet melted and along its front and lateral edges, deposited its accumulated earthy burden, and placed it at our feet

The solid granite heads menace the farmer's plow, and the rough, sandy hills grind the share to a wasted piece of steel Yet nature, before we came upon this earth, had plowed our land and made it rich and mellow by adding minerals that are constantly released for growing crops

ALLOTS $7,300 IN RELIEF FUNDS

County Distributes $6,485 to City, Madison; Rest Goes to Eight Townships.

Mansfield and Madison township received $6,485 of $7,360 in state relief funds allocated yesterday by Richland county commissioners, while the remainder went to Shelby and eight other townships unable to meet their relife bills.

The state money, allocated monthly for relief purposes, included $5,529 in sales tax receipts and $1,831 in beer, malt and admission taxes.

Major allocations were $4,985 to Mansfield, $1,500 to Madison township and $400 to Shelby.

The eight townships which were unable to pay their own relief bills and shared in the distribution are:

Monroe, which received $75; Worthington, $75; Troy, Springfield and Jefferson, $50 each; Cass and Mifflin, $25 each; and Bloominggrove, $30.

The distribution will enable Madison township trustees to resume issuing relief orders on a 50 per cent basis. Relief orders had previously been ordered held up during the month of July because of lack of funds.

AUTOS KILL BIG GAME IN WEST

But Elk or Moose Must Be Surrendered By 'Hunters.'

BUTTE, Mont. — (AP) — Frank Wakely, of Butte, driving near Hebgen dam, struck an elk amidships, ruining the front end of his automobile and placing the elk out of commission permanently.

A mile farther along the road another motorist rammed a moose. Two legs were broken and a game warden had to shoot the animal.

One drawback in using an automobile as a lethal weapon is that, instead of getting the big game, the hunter has to give it to the state game department. The meat is sent to charitable institutions.

In farm homes where there are babies the housewife of today still works around 73 hours a week.

FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1938

Those Cleveland Indians can at least keep the opposing team nervous up to the very last inning.

Might it be possible that the old street car tracks are being left undisturbed purely as a matter of sentiment?

The matter of identity becomes even more confusing when Mr. Davey thinks he was insulted as governor, whereas it appears that he was merely insulted as a candidate for third term.

More Interest In Primaries.

WITH the August primaries little more than three weeks away, present indications are that voting on that occasion will be heavier than usual, induced largely by the several bitter battles in prospect among Democratic contenders.

Occurrences of the past week have enlivened interest in the Democratic contests for the senatorial and gubernatorial nominations while the Republican contest for nomination as candidate for U. S. senator has also entered a livelier stage.

The proposed bond issue of $550,000 to finance a new school building program in Mansfield, to be presented to voters on the same date, is also expected to add to the total vote that would ordinarily be expected in this city.

Aside from apparent lack of interest among voters, there is little justification for adverse criticism of the primary method of choosing candidates for various public offices.

Next month's primaries are important. Each party is to choose its candidates for governor, senator and congressman, as well as for state and county offices. Comparative qualifications of all contenders should be given careful consideration by all voters between now and Tuesday, August 9.

Way to Effective Reform.

NEW YORK state's constitutional convention is wrestling with the familiar problem of what should, and what should not, properly be placed in a constitution. A specific point at issue is the outright prohibition of gambling throughout the state. Those in favor argue simply that gambling is not good for the people, that it is wrong in itself and that therefore the state should forbid it.

Honest advocates on the other side argue that the constitution is not the place for legislation. Its purpose is to state basic principles and rights and to leave to legislatures the task of enacting sound laws to cover specific situations. When a majority of the people do not favor it wholeheartedly, they say, any strict prohibition is useless. It cannot be enforced. Furthermore, it stands in the way of necessary regulation and control.

The prohibition and repeal amendments to the federal constitution proved that the battle against an evil is not won when the wrong weapons are used or the right ones are applied too hastily. Education to create strong popular support for a reform often proves more effective than premature legislation.

Hitler Not Ready For War.

AFTER looking Europe over, Walter Lippmann writes in the New York Herald-Tribune that a big war is unlikely, and if there should be one it will come rather by accident than from deliberate planning. For no power today is in position to win a big war quickly, as has been proved in Spain and China, and the aggressive powers lack resources for a long war.

This reasoning applies particularly to Germany. Hitler does not strike unless he is sure of winning, because he knows his country's limitations. So far he has not risked a war. For a big war he would need the resources of the Danube basin, especially of Czechoslovakia. He has not dared to move against that country because, when threatened it shows determined resistance. In the present situation, if Hitler started hostilities, "a blockaded Germany would be pitted against the resources of practically the whole world."

Britain's military power, too, grows steadily stronger. Thus, barring an accident or an act of madness, this precarious peace may last for years.

Tailor Turns to Politics.

LOOKING over some of the publicity being sent out by Ed Day, of Akron, Democratic candidate for nomination as lieutenant governor, one might suspect Ed of being more interested in boosting his tailoring business than in being regarded as a serious contender for a high political office.

Mr. Day admits a desire to get up to the pie-counter, which, he explains, "is some political job, where efficiency and ability are secondary—a legalized excuse to pay excessive sums of money to men who, in all but rare cases, could not hold a position in private life or conduct their own business."

It may be doubted if Ed takes himself seriously enough to succeed in politics. He also seems to have the fatal weakness of recognizing his own shortcomings.

Rest From Talk.

SOMETIMES a doctor's orders are harder to take than the medicine he prescribes. That is the way the reporter regarded the commands of George Bernard Shaw's physician. Shaw, who will be 82 years old July 26, has been suffering for the last few months from a form of anemia. He is thought not to be seriously ill, but has been told by his doctor that he must not talk to anyone about anything, read controversial topics in newspapers, answer the telephone, or write articles.

These restrictions may be hard for the playwright to endure. On the other hand, they may be welcome. In these days of too much argument, too much war, too much economic distress, too much social unrest, a ban on all talk and controversy might easily amount to a pleasant vacation.

Campaigning is becoming even more difficult and out in Kansas the wife of a candidate is tagging along to "see the size of the babies he kisses."

Pity the newspapers—always looking for something complimentary to say about a public official, and so seldom having a chance.

Cod-liver oil is said to be 250 times as potent in food value as butter—but as a dietary substitute it seems to lack something.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

A MAN, with indignation, tells this column of an incident on the Canadian-American border:

"Mrs. ——, wife of a well-known citizen in our city, came to the United States twenty years ago from Canada. She married, has two children, is a leader in civic affairs. She always had intended taking out citizenship papers, in fact did take out first papers but misplaced them. At any rate, due to her marriage to an American citizen years ago, she probably is a citizen to all intents and purposes.

"Every summer she takes the children to a lake resort in Canada.

"This year, for the first time, on her return, as she crossed the border into the United States, she was stopped by immigration officers. In an abrupt manner, they questioned her, demanded papers, and when she could produce none except her automobile driver's license, they detained her for questioning—and not for hours were they satisfied and permitted her to go on. Even then they threatened to deport her unless she produced records within 10 days.

"Her husband, in the meantime, when his wife did not appear at home at the scheduled time, became frenzied with fear.

"When his wife finally did appear, overwrought and exhausted, late that night, the husband's anger knew no bounds over the stupidity of bureaucratic officials.

"He wanted to know whether the government had decided to keep out or deport its own good citizens, because of some technicality. He asked whether we had gone in for the idiocy of the dictator countries."

GETTING BETTER

No, under the Roosevelt administration, the majority of immigration officers have been using common sense—which could not be said a few years back.

But the laws under which they operate are awkward and often unintentionally intolerant.

I know a woman—a very fine, intelligent, keen, sensitive woman—who came to the United States more than twenty years ago, but who on taking out her first papers, was barked at in such a manner that she never went further. She has a fright when she hears of naturalization departments now. Her husband of many years, however, is guiding her now to citizenship. She will make the finest type—in fact, already is; and is thoroughly American.

It surely cannot be the intent of the people of the United States to make it difficult for the cream of other nations to become citizens of the United States. The way ought to be paved for them.

TOO FEW PEOPLE?

Recent surveys indicate that the United States will near the peak of its population in twenty years.

This will force readjustments on virtually every business.

There will be no broadening markets, except as income increases—and everyone hopes THAT will. There will be no great increases in land values, as there will be no increasing population to claim new areas. Or, if new areas are developed, old areas will be depopulated and become blighted areas. With improved means of production of crops and goods, there will be constantly increasing surpluses, which will weigh down prices.

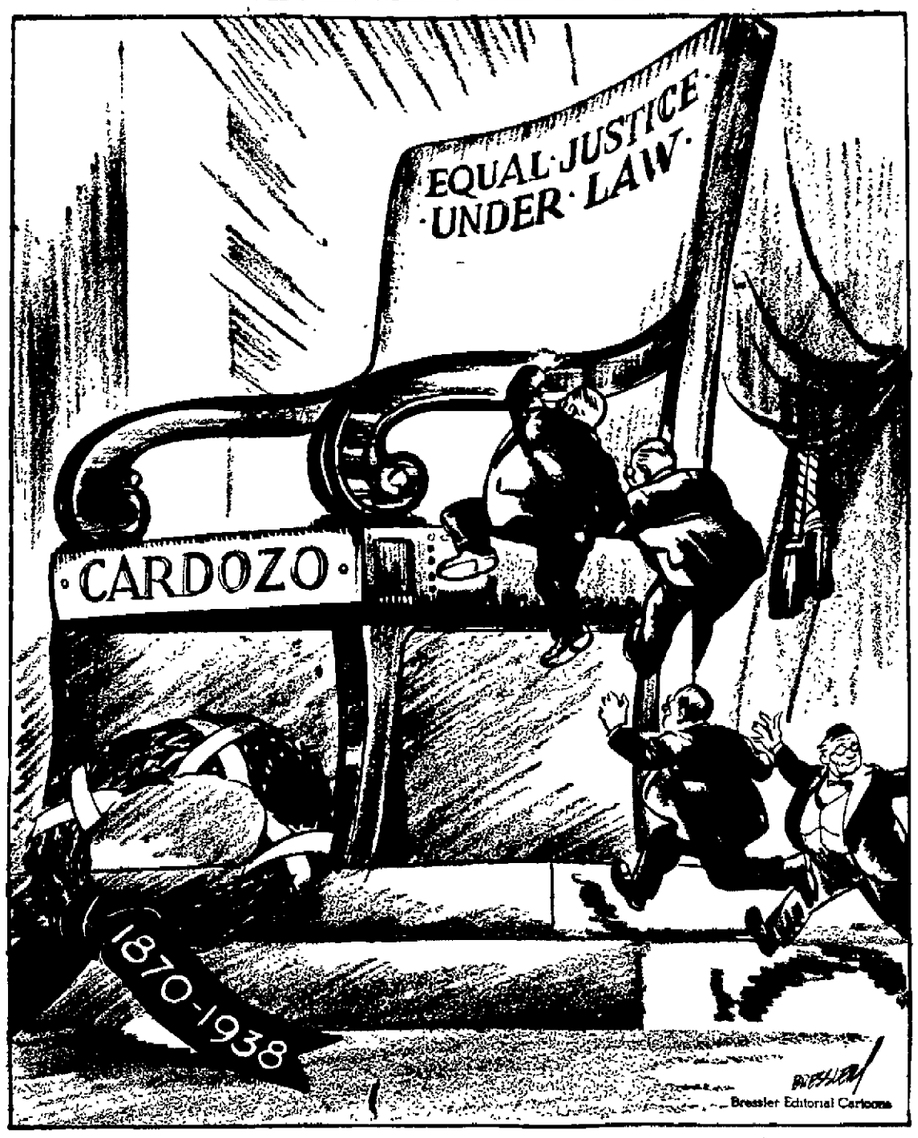
Before it is all over, the United States will find that it is underpopulated. It will appeal for selected immigration. The more hands the more consumers formerly was a phrase used by economists. In the last quarter of a century, due to a rise of nationalism, of unionism and of hatreds or fears of foreign political and religious doctrines, the trend has been sharply in the opposite direction. Immigration not only has been restricted but dislocated, together with similar restrictions against international trade—and the world finds itself in an economic morass.

With great numbers unemployed in the United States, it is difficult for the average man to see that immigration and unrestricted trade might mean more jobs instead of fewer. Our unemployment itself may be caused by locking the door against that which we need.

It is a tremendous problem that will have to be worked out in the next decade. Otherwise, decade may spell decadence for America.

I, myself, was born in a part of the country where there have been few immigrants—in the deep interior—and there wages have remained low, and farmers have difficulty getting rid of their crops.

WHO'LL MEASURE UP TO IT?



Seek Remedy for Dixie 'Doldrums'

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The executive spotlight which switches from time to time on new agencies, has picked out one Lowell Mellett and his National Emergency council for a period of prominence that shows signs of being far more than temporary.

Mellett was an editor of a Washington newspaper. He had New Deal ideas before 1933 and long has been one of the president's intimates. Now as N. E. C. director, he has been incorporated officially into the White House executive ring to take over a job second in importance only to emergency relief. The job is to manage the president's effort to rescue the South from the economic doldrums.

The Emergency council, hiding in the obscurity of a thousand half-forgotten bureaus, has been marked for death time after time. Best opinion here is that it was rescued lately mainly as an avenue down which the president could launch his southern enterprise.

Many Are Called—

IT IS a familiar trick of the president's to use first one agency and then another with the scintillating performance of a swing-band trap drummer. He financed banks through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; took jobless boys off the streets with CCC, and corralled the unemployed with a half dozen relief agencies. And now, N. E. C. is brought around for the invasion of the South. Its membership once included the entire cabinet, together with the heads of each of the new agencies created under the present administration.

Co-ordination of policy and elimination of overlapping were its main purposes and undoubtedly Mellett will continue in that capacity. In addition, it has a whiplash "advisory" power to eliminate duplication of effort among governmental agencies, although since 1935 it has been more in the doldrums than the South it is expected now to stimulate.

Current Washington opinion is that Mellett, soft-voiced and serious-minded, has been singled out to stage one of the big governmental spectacles of 1938, the investigation of what the president calls "the nation's Number 1 economic problem," the South.

Already the suggestion of tampering with established conditions in the South has stirred suspicions of politicians doubtful of the president's purposes. Moreover, northern industry has already looked suspiciously upon any effort to juggle freight rates, wage and hour problems and other industrial factors with a view to mechanizing the South.

Operator, the White House.

THE job under a General Hugh Johnson might be blown up to amazing proportions. Mellett is no General Johnson such as NRA knew and his attack on the new phase of his job was un-Johnsonian. He called a conference of southern industrial, labor and economic leaders, as requested by the president. But he read them no orders.

Instead, he asked their opinions on Dixie's troubles with regard to freight rates, cotton surpluses, population surpluses, poorly financed industry and racial conflicts. He promised no immediate solutions, but the president has never been satisfied with a mere report—without recommendations.

Mellett works in his shirt sleeves because it is hot, has four telephones on his desk—one straight to the White House. He is gray-headed, brown-eyed, slender and active, but undramatic in the manner of a General Johnson or a Harry Hopkins.

But his associates predict his show will be no less dramatic for that, involving as it does federal intervention in a territory belligerently independent and states rightist.

Health Advice

Vitamin B Needed In Adult Diet.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHEN our still new knowledge of the vitamins was still newer, the idea became pretty general among practicing physicians that while it was necessary to see to it that certain vitamins were present in children's diets, the adult could pretty well get along without giving any thought to whether his diet had vitamins or not.

A well-balanced diet of any adult, they said, contained enough vitamins anyway. Children's diet needed the addition of vitamins C and D, which prevented respectively scurvy and rickets; this was proved by experience because on what seemed to be a well-balanced diet for a child, these diseases developed with great regularity.

Besides that, vitamins influence such things as growth and immunity, and hence are especially needed in childhood.

But there is a trend toward the idea that at least one vitamin is very necessary in adult life and middle age and that perhaps for some reason the adult does not get enough of it. And that for this reason it should be added to the diet in concentrated form.

The vitamin the adult needs is B. According to formal classifications there are two B's, but probably the adult needs both of them.

Valuable Element.

Vitamin B is being used to augment the diet in liver deficiency, in anemia, in gout, in arthritis, in some forms of heart trouble, for lack of stomach secretions, in neuritis and in loss of tone of the bowel.

It will be noticed that all of these conditions belong to what might be called the degenerative changes of middle age.

When one asks why there should be a Vitamin B deficiency in middle age, the answers are several. In the first place, the chief source of Vitamin B in the food is in yeast, whole wheat bread, cereals, liver and kidney—the concentration of the vitamin being in the order named.

Now it is a matter of ordinary observation that in middle age people tend to give up eating cereal and bread and many dislike liver and kidneys so much they never eat them. So it is quite possible there is a normal dietary deficiency of the vitamins. Then stomach disorders will cut down the appetite, and in middle age the liver function falls off and as a consequence, the vitamin is not absorbed or utilized in the body.

A specific example of this lack of utilization of the vitamins is seen in drunkards, who may develop alcoholic neuritis, simply because they eat little and have an impaired digestion. If Vitamin B concentrate is given them, even though they continue their alcoholic habits, the neuritis clears up.

Were There Really 'Good Old Days'?

The "good old days"? They never were. That, at least, is the opinion Donald Hough, American author, sets forth in the current Rotarian Magazine.

"Men change, but times goes on," he says. "Tests prove that the apple of today is a better apple than that of 50 years ago. The weather bureau finds that over a period of 50 years there has been a change of a small fraction of one degree in the mean temperature of a certain small area in the southeastern part of the United States, otherwise all is the same as before. The snow lies just as deep, the winters are just as cold, the summers are just as hot—or vice versa.

To this, Hough adds the verdict that the best cooking is found not on the farm of yesterday, but in the restaurant of today. Cooking in America—once enslaved to the frying pan and boiling pot—is one of its newest arts, he indicates. The food is better now, perhaps the appetites aren't.

"Not all the people in America live in three-room kitchenette apartments, most politicians are honest, the average policeman cannot be bought, the country is full of young people who really do know more than their elders, money as a barometer of human worth is losing its grip, the cooking is getting better, people live longer, the whole history of man still can be summed up in one short word, 'advance.' So says the author.

"The 'good old days' ?" he asks. "Which ones?"

Listen, World!

Which Should Come First . . . Your Job or What It Will Buy You?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WAIT 'a minute! Let's have your honest low-down on this question, if you dare! Ready? Then listen:

When you head for your office, store or factory in the morning, what's your main interest—

YOUR JOB? OR WHAT IT'LL BUY YOU?

Why'm I asking? Because a famous business man made the following remarks to me—and they are such a Large Mouthful that I need your help. Said he:

"You can't expect much from these young workers, nowadays. I admit they're bright. Brightest generation, perhaps, the world has ever seen. And you don't have to look far for the reason. Right from the start, they have more opportunities than you'n' I ever dreamed of. More comforts 'n' luxuries . . . fancy educations, movies, radios, automobiles, silk stockings—everything.

"So, of course, they naturally grow up thinking that such things are essential. Thinking they've a right to 'em. And feeling they're done dirt if they can't get them with their first job.

"Well, in a way, that's all right. Ambition's okay. Wanting the good things of life keeps youngsters hustling. We wanted 'em, too, at that age; although you can't get these modern kids to believe it. They just think we naturally LIKED doing without swell gadgets.

"But, getting back to this ambition idea—I'm for it. Wanting something better than he has keeps a kid moving. But when he can't think of anything else—why, that's bad. And that's the way most of these young squirts are nowadays. As I said before, they're bright. And they're not lazy. They'll hustle as hard as the next one. But, from my way o' seeing it, it's the wrong kind of hustling. They're not hustling because they like their job . . . or are interested in it . . . or are proud of their record. They're just hustling—TO GET SOMETHING.

"Take my generation—we liked our jobs. We were proud as Punch when we landed one. I'll never forget the first one I landed at 17. All I got was $3.50 a week and found. But I was the proudest young turkey this side of Cork. Why, there wasn't any angle to that job I didn't know. I dreamed about it at night, talked about it over my lunch, made a pest of myself over it.

"BUT CAN YOU JUST FEATURE OFFERING ONE OF THESE YOUNG NABOBS A $3.50 JOB! HE'D THINK YOU WERE CRAZY! 'SMATTER OF FACT . . . HE'D PROBABLY THINK YOU WERE INSULTING HIM. A SMART KID LIKE HIM—INTERESTED IN A MEASLY LITTLE JOB? HOWD'YA GET THAT WAY!

"Of course, I admit—there are a lot of good, sensible young people now as there always were. But I'm talking of the majority . . . and from my experience, there's hardly one in a hundred who cares a hoot about his job today. He'll do it, and maybe do it well. But he isn't thinking of the job . . . and he isn't looking to find any pride or content in that job. What he's thinking of is a way to buy a car or a Tux or show his girl a swell time. And I'm telling you again—that's BAD.

"It isn't bad just because it's raising a bunch of sissies. It's doing that too; but there's something worse. Kids with notions like that are being cheated out of the best part of life. For, after all, your real reward for working is the work itself . . . and the pride you get out of doing a swell job. That's worth more than a dozen jobs. 'N' if you lose that, you've wasted one of the best things there is.

"And it isn't just the young squirts who feel that way—it's the older ones, too. In fact, I'm beginning to suspect that's mostly what ails this whole daggoned nation. It's like looking for a needle in a haystack to find a man who really cares for his job . . . IT'S WHAT HE CAN BUY WITH IT THAT COUNTS—"

A LARGE mouthful? I warned you! What's your answer! Were we happier, healthier; did we have more power and peace in the days when we loved our jobs? Or did we have a "slave complex" and are we just "beginning to learn how to live"? YOU tell us.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The most fascinating and hilarious party game I have ever played is the game of Famous Lovers. You play it like this: The hostess gives out duplicate sets of numbers. And if you get, say, No. 5, then the girl who receives that number is your partner.

After partners have been determined the hostess gives out a third set of slips with the names of famous lovers written on them. For instance, one slip may have Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara. But you aren't supposed to tell the others whom you represent.

When each couple has been designated as a pair of famous names in fiction or history they take turns in acting out a little skit which identifies the lovers in question.

With the rest of the gathering as an audience, one pair at the party I attended went out into the kitchen and rigged themselves up thusly:

THE girl thrust some flowers into her hair. The man rolled his pants up above his knees. Then with the host as a helper waving a broom over his head, that is to say, fanning him as Nubian slaves fanned their masters years ago, the man and the girl came into the room. They put a cracker box on the floor and the girl sat in it and reclined as gracefully as possible. The box was supposed to represent a barge on the River Nile, so everybody cheered and shouted "Anthony and Cleopatra."

Another couple went out and while the man dashed upstairs and appropriated his host's cutaway, the girl quickly parted her hair in the center. Then she came back into the room and sat demurely on a couch. Meanwhile the man fashioned himself a make-believe crown and picked up a globe of the world. He came in and held out his arms but she shook her head. Then he took off his crown and threw it on the floor. Next he tossed the globe into a far corner, indicating his willingness to throw away the world. And everybody then knew they were looking at Edward and Wally.

THERE were some very funny portrayals. I was Capt. John Smith and my partner was Pocahontas. I found a fur cap, which I hoped looked like a Daniel Boone coonskin, and my partner put on the jacket of a child's Indian suit and put a feather in her hair. The host bound my arms and threw me on the floor. Just as he was about to tomahawk me, my Indian princess came tripping in, shrieking: "Don't kill him, oh, Chief; I'll marry him."

Among the others which came in for some hilarious burlesque were Priscilla and John Alden ("Speak for yourself, John"); Romeo and Juliet (the vault scene where Romeo, believing Juliet dead, swallows poison, only to have her return to consciousness and stab herself); Katharine and Petruccio ("Taming of the Shrew"), and Jane Eyre and Mr. Rochester.

It was certainly a successful party, and the idea, insofar as my hostess knows, hasn't been used before. At least none of us had ever heard of it. It was something she just happened to think up.

4-H DAIRY CLUBS TO VISIT FARMS

Groups to Get Pointers on Showing, Judging Cattle in Tour Wednesday.

Richland county 4-H dairy club members and their advisers and parents will tour the county Wednesday, visiting four dairy farms to obtain pointers for club members who plan to exhibit cattle or compete in judging contests at the county and state fairs.

Under the direction of C. L. Blackman, dairy specialist at the Ohio State university, the group will start the tour at 8:30 a. m. at the farm of H. B. Paine north of Shiloh where Jersey cattle will be inspected.

From there the club members will go to the H. S. Hulit farm in Madison township, and in the afternoon will visit the G. D. Rader farm in Sandusky township, and the W. B. Cockley farm at Lexington.

The Hulit herd includes Guernsey cattle, while Ayrshires are produced on the Rader farm and Holsteins on the Cockley farm.

"There will be practice in cattle judging and a discussion of fitting and showing cattle at the dairy farms," George B. Ganyard, county farm agent, said.

A cattle judging team to compete at the Richland county fair and the state fair probably will be chosen from the club members who make the tour, Ganyard added.

55-Acre Farm To Be Offered at Sheriff's Sale Saturday.

A 55-acre farm in Monroe township will be put on the auction block at 10:30 a. m. Saturday at the courthouse to pay a $2,337 foreclosure judgment against D. D. Peterson and others as the owners.

Appraised at $2,400, the property will be offered at sheriff's sale to satisfy a judgment awarded to the Federal Land Bank of Louisville. The land must sell for at least $1,600, or two-thirds of the appraisement.

WHITEWAY BILL UP FOR RENEWAL

Ordinance Calling for 9-Year Contract for Lighting Part of North Main Drafted.

City council at its next meeting will be asked to renew the whiteway lighting assessments on North Main street from Fifth to Olive streets.

An ordinance on file with council clerk William J. Beer, jr., calls for the renewal of the assessments for a nine-year period. The present 10-year ordinance expires today.

Beer explained that the new measure was drafted for nine years so it would expire at the same time as other whiteway lighting contracts.

The new ordinance calls for the renewal of the present rate of 34 cents per foot frontage annually to be assessed for a nine-year period.

The measure provides that the total assessment against each lot can be paid in cash within 30 days or in nine annual installments without interest to be placed on the tax duplicate.

YOKOHAMA — (INS) — Turn about is fair play in Japan, too. Handbills urging Japanese longshoremen not to handle goods brought to Japan by British steamers were scattered about the waterfront here recently.

SEEDLESS GRAPES TO BE NEW ITEM ON SATURDAY'S MARKETS

A new item and always a welcome one on Saturday's market will be seedless grapes, the little white variety from California. The big, sweet, sugarloaf pineapples which will be available here for the week-end will be particularly welcome to housewives because they are late enough to be classed as out of season fruit.

This week saw red currants and a few sour cheries in a number of markets and they probably will run over into next week. Red and black raspberries have been nice quality this year but have been hard to handle because they developed mold within a few hours after being picked, growers report.

From California and southern states come Bing cherries, red and yellow plums, apricots, fresh figs, avacados and seedless grapes. A few blue plums are promised for Saturday.

To the variety of melons is added Casaba this week, and the long early Indian watermelons.

Home grown roasting ears is a favorite vegetable right now and comes in both yellow and white ears. Green peas are plentiful and the home grown variety will be supplemented by California young peas.

Green and yellow beans, coming directly to the markets from Richland county growers, are fresh, crisp and very inexpensive, selling in many places for around five cents a pound.

Other varieties are squash, Lima beans, parsnips, green peppers, egg plant, leafy salad greens, kale and mustard greens.

Divorce has been cut almost in half in Moscow during the past two years.

TRIPP, S. D.— (AP) —Here are some of the things a tornado did when it hit farms near Tripp:

1—Left Frank Solay's cow with so many straws driven into her body that she looked like a porcupine. She survived but didn't like it.

2—Picked Wallace Hoenke's chickens "cleaner than any housewife could do it."

3—Ripped up tombstones and plowed others under, in a cemetery.

STEAM ROLLER JOY RIDE

WILMINGTON, Del. — (U.P.) — Several small boys fulfilled a lifetime ambition when workers at a housing development left a steam roller with the "steam up." Their ride ended against an embankment at the end of a long field, but when a police radio car arrived at the scene the boys were gone.

SCHOOL BONDS ENDORSED AT P.T.A. SESSION

Campaign for Votes to Gain Further Momentum at 2nd of Meetings Tonight.

With the $550,000 school bond issue unanimously endorsed last night, at the first of a series of P. T. A. meetings, the campaign for favorable votes for the measure will gain further momentum tonight, when the plan is outlined to the Woodland P. T. A. at the Woodland school.

Last night's meeting, the initial one of a series, was held at West Fifth street school, with 60 members in attendance. The proposed building plan was outlined by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer and Harold W. Arlin, member of the board of education. At the conclusion of the talks, the association voted unanimously to support the movement.

Calls For $450,000 Grant.

The proposal calls for a local bond issue of $550,000 which will be submitted to voters at the Aug. 9 primary and to which would be added a federal PWA grant of $450,000. Two new buildings, both junior highs, will be built. One will replace the present John Simpson building, and the other, to be known as Johnny Appleseed Junior high, will be built at Cline avenue and Wood street. The school board has already obtained title to the property.

Arlin pointed out that the John Simpson building was erected when Benjamin Harrison was president of the country—in 1891—and that at the time the Hedges building was constructed, Mansfield was recovering from the effects of the civil war. That was in 1867.

Although tonight's meeting in Woodland school, scheduled for 7:30 p. m., is primarily to explain the building plan to members of the Woodland P. T. A., the meeting will be open to the public, and the classrooms will be thrown open for inspection, so that visitors may obtain first-hand information on what a new school is like. Woodland, the city's newest school, was completed in 1936. Harold Bruce, school board member, is scheduled to speak at tonight's meeting.

Example in Bond Campaign

This is the sort of school room persons attending tonight's school bond campaign meeting at Woodland school will see—and the kind the proposed new junior high buildings will contain, if the $550,000 bond issue passes at the primary, Aug. 9. Woodland is the city's newest school, having been completed in 1936.

Lucas Board Sells $40,000 In Bonds For New School

LUCAS—With the sale of its bonds, amounting to $40,000, to a Toledo firm this week, the Monroe board of education was a step nearer the realization of the new $85,000 addition to the local school building.

Actual construction work on the new structure is expected to get under way early in September, according to members of the local board.

Plans for the new building, which will include six classrooms and a gymnasium - auditorium, prepared by Charles Marr, New Philadelphia architect, have been submitted to the state department of education for final approval.

'FORGETS' PAIR JURY INDICTED

Sheriff's Office Neglects to Notify 'Em—So They're Not at Arraignment.

court at 9 a. m. Monday and Reid this afternoon, if possible.

Strohminger appeared at the county jail yesterday to ask if he was indicted. Deputy Robinson told him he was and handed him a copy of the indictments for manslaughter. At that time, however, the arraignment had not been set.

Five of the six persons who were indicted secretly by the jury have not been taken into custody by county officers, while Jevons Zelinski, indicted for breaking into Mansfield Senior high school, is serving a sentence in the Wisconsin state prison.

Charles Biehl, 22, of Ashland, who had been indicted secretly for forgery, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation for three years to Harry Crouse, county probation officer.

Biehl gave himself up to Richland county officers after he returned here from New Jersey where he fled following the forging of 11 checks for more than $250. He implicated a companion who has not been apprehended.

Thomas Cantrell, colored, Mansfield, indicted for breaking into the Mansfield Elks club rooms, was granted a continuance until 9 a. m. Monday at the request of Atty. George Blecker, his counsel.

Judge Huston also continued the case of Marks Sankey, of near Mansfield, who pleaded guilty to a charge of pointing a revolver at Mrs. Edna Parker, his landlady. The judge said he wanted more time to question Sankey's acquaintances.

Don't Scoff at Gadgets, Plea of Inventors' Chief

A plea for the encouragement of modern invention was made by Albert G. Burns of Almeda, Calif., in an address before 70 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests yesterday at the Westbrook Country club.

"Don't laugh at some of the apparently silly ideas of inventors," he told the group, "for out of some of the crack-brained ideas of the past have come some of the most practical equipment of the present day."

Burns, president of the National Inventors' congress, told his audience not to scoff at some of the gadgets that are produced by inventors, for those same gadgets within a few years may be widely utilized.

Burns, who is in Ohio completing arrangements for a five-day convention of inventors which will be held July 18 to 22 in Cincinnati, spoke on "New Inventions—the Way Out."

He claimed that more new inventions have been developed during the past year than any other time in history.

Consider Calling Girdler In Steel Strike Inquiry

SENATE GROUP CLEARS PATH FOR HEARINGS

Republic Steel Officials Called to Testify During Session Monday.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Investigators for the senate civil liberties committee said today they might subpoena Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, during hearings on last summer's CIO strike against "little steel."

Girdler's name was not included in the original list of witnesses called for the series of pubic hearings, beginning Monday. Girdler was the outstanding figure on industry's side of the strike, which finally collapsed.

R. J. Wysor, president of Republic, heads the witness list for next week which also includes J. C. Agetsinger and W. B. Gillies, vice presidents of Youngstown Sheet & Tube company.

Call Employer Groups.

Also called to testify at continuance of "the study began last spring on the activities of employers' associations and citizens' committees in the general field of labor relations" were witnesses for a number of Ohio employer groups and representatives of CIO's steel workers organizing committee, topped by Clinton S. Golden of Pittsburgh.

The committee, announcing that particular attention would be given "certain events of the little steel strike of 1937," said hearings also would cover "labor policies and activities of Republic Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company during the past few years."

Other Republic officials called to testify are C. M. White, vice president in charge of operations; Joseph A. Voss, director of industrial relations: J. M. Williams, chief of police for the corporation; Joseph Gilroy, captain of Republic police at Canton, and G. E. Todd, captain of Republic police at Buffalo, N. Y.

Employer groups and witnesses included: Mahoning Valley Industrial council, Youngstown, Kenneth L. Lloyd; Trumbull County Manufacturers association, Warren, Carl B. Dodge, secretary; Canton Development corporation, Canton; T. K. Harris, chairman of the citizens' committee of Canton, and chairman of the Canton Law and Order league, and Youngstown Citizens Civic Affairs committee, Youngstown, Ray G. Hastrom, chairman.

Appearing among union witnesses will be members and officials of SWOC locals in Cleveland, Canton, Youngstown and Warren.

Predicts Greater Medical Care For Nation's Indigent

CINCINNATI — (UP — Greater medical care for those who cannot afford it was advocated by Dr. Arthur E. Allen of Minneapolis, newly-inducted president of the American Osteopathic association, in his inaugural address at the association's 42nd convention today.

"This coming year will see important developments and advances in socialized medicine," Dr. Allen said. "The federal government is definitely interested in the health of the citizens of the country. * * * It goes without saying that we should co-operate with the government for the betterment of the public health, in order to evolve a method for supplying a service which will be of the greatest good to the greatest number, and which will still permit our citizens the free choice of their physicians."

In a resolution, the association's house of delegates pledged co-operation of the profession with "employers and employes, representatives of lay organizations, and with other medical organizations and with departments of the government" in working out a more adequate medical program.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(AP)—Steel production rose to its highest point in eight months in Buffalo area today as firing of another hearth brought it to 35 per cent of capacity.

SEEKS RESTRAINING ORDER

In an action on file today in common pleas court, Mrs. J. C. Stroup, Mansfield, seeks a restraining order enjoining J. G. Crider, a nephew, also of Mansfield, from coming to her home or interfering with her business. Mrs. Stroup contends that the defendant enters her home against her wishes and insists on dominating her home and business activities.

Up and Down THE STREET

One of Mansfield's most serious-minded Eagle Scouts has changed his Boy Scout uniform for that of a West Point cadet. Alvin M. Bachrach, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Bachrach, 33 Helen avenue, has been sworn in as a cadet in the United States Military academy. For three weeks he will receive an intensive course in military subjects, and starting July 22 he will begin taking part in the impressive cadet parades which have made the academy famous all over the world. During the month of August, the young Mansfielder, with his classmen, will be encamped at Fort Clinton, N. Y.

The elements yesterday thwarted Mansfield's chances at least for the time being, of gaining national publicity. A photographer for Life magazine who came here from Columbus especially to "shoot" "Safety Town" had to leave without his picture story when he arrived at Johns park to find that the youngsters who play the game of "motorist" and "pedestrian" under the supervision of the city recreation department, left for home during the noonday rain. Patrolman Frend C. Boals, originator of "Safety Town" was informed however, that the photographer would return to Mansfield within the near future.

Not only to adults is the $550,000 school bond issue important — youngsters are interested, too. At the West Fifth street P. T. A. meeting last night, a mother related that her daughter, in the sixth grade at West Fifth, and due to enter John Simpson Junior high—one of the antiquated buildings the bond issue would replace with a modern structure — asked her teacher if she couldn't "make her fail" so she wouldn't have to go to such an old, dilapidated school!

There was some dispute today as to who was the champion chicken eater at the Retail Merchants association dinner at Shiloh the other night. There was chicken galore—so much in fact that when Secretary V. A. Lodde asked at the close of the dinner if everyone had sufficient—that six platters of "leavins" were available for Lester (Kobacker) Faulkner who refused to say "enough." Faulkner thereby outdistanced President C. M. Crafton as the chicken eating champ, his friends contend.

MART ADVANCE AIDS BUSINESS

But Economist Finds Nation Still Needs Fundamental Improvements.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—The rapid stock market advance that started June 20 has given business conditions a better appearance, but has not caused any fundamental improvement, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist and banker, said today.

In the business bulletin of the Cleveland Trust company, of which he is vice president, Ayres says:

"The passage of the pump priming appropriations made it virtually certain that the volume of gerenal business activity would be greater in the second half of this year than in the first half. That assurance brought some speculative buying into the security markets, which responded with a rapid marking up of prices."

Ayres said that the initial stock market advance was caused by purchase orders from abroad, and that those orders were promptly supported by short covering here. There followed a buying wave instigated by investors who had determined to take part in the next upswing, he declared.

"Advancing stock prices always generate optimistic business sentiment, and that has happened this time," the bulletin said.

The business optimism has caused some increase in commodity prices, which, Ayres said, is an encouraging sign.

'BLESSING' FOR M'ADOO DELAYED BY HOT BATTLE

President's Train Bombarded With Protests in Expected Approval of Senator.

(By International News Service)

ENROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Cal.—President Roosevelt found himself today, near the conclusion of his transcontinental tour, enmeshed in a redhot political primary in California which promised to provide him with some embarrassment before he boards a navy cruiser tomorrow for a month's cruise.

Several months ago, Mr. Roosevelt sent a "Dear Mac" letter to Senator McAdoo, urging him to be a candidate for re-election on the ground that the New Deal needed his long experience in public affairs.

But there is a real opposition to McAdoo in California. He has two opponents in the Democratic primary on Aug. 30. One of them is Sheridan Downey, a former Townsendite who ran on Upton Sinclair's ticket in 1934. The other is John W. Preston, an ex-judge of the state supreme court.

Warn of Split.

Both the Downey and the Preston camps have been bombarding the presidential train with protests against any Rooseveltian endorsement of McAdoo in the state —warning that if there is it means a split Democratic party in November, endangering Democratic success.

What effect these bombardments have had is not yet apparent. McAdoo rode with the president in his tour of the Bay region of San Francisco all of Thursday.

Neither Downey nor Preston was present. Downey had telegraphed a warning that Mr. Roosevelt would invite trouble if he endorsed McAdoo.

In any event, Mr. Roosevelt completed his first day and night in California without a specific endorsement of Senator McAdoo, notwithstanding his "Dear Mac" letter of several months ago.

There are six candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, most of whom are claiming New Deal support, and proclaiming themselves New Dealers.

Confronted with such a situation, Mr. Roosevelt passed the first part of his three-day visit of California without a comment. He did not endorse Senator McAdoo, nor did he take any sides in the many-sided gubernatorial race.

Bomb Thrown Into Crowded Bazaar in Holy Land.

JERUSALEM — (INS) — Deathtoll in the intermittent Arab-Jewish rioting in the Holy Land was increased by 11 today when a bomb was thrown into a crowded bazaar in the interior of the old city of Jerusalem.

At least 40 others were injured when the bomb exploded in the midst of a group of Arabs.

The blast was heard over a wide area and aroused great excitement throughout Jerusalem. The dead included women and children and it was feared that seven of the most seriously injured would die.

The bazaar was crowded at the time of the explosion with scores of Arab peasants who had come into the city for the usual Friday devotional services at the city's mosques.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Frances Woods, 25, a waitress, was back in a jail cell today, facing a re-trial on charges of murdering Maureen O'Shannon, 24, a nurse during a row over marijuana ciragets.

A jury of 10 men and two women was unable to reach an agreement and was dismissed.

Miss Woods was accused of stabbing Miss O'Shannon with a pocket knife three times when the latter reprimanded her for advocating smoking the cigarets. Miss Woods pleaded self defense.

GEN. JOHNSON:

New opinions on current industrial problems held by executives encourage

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.: Mr. Lewis H. Brown is chairman of the commerce and industry committee of the International Management Congress which will meet in Washington in September.

Mr. Brown has sent me a collection of opinions of leading American business managers on the present problem of industrial leadership. It is the most remarkable document I have recently seen.

Almost without exception, the outstanding thought is recognition of a vast change in the duty and responsibility of industrial management toward labor, the consuming public and to government, as well as to stockholders. In many of these opinions is a spoken or implied admission that heretofore too much or even exclusive emphasis has been put on managerial obligation to stockholders or ownership.

There can be no doubt of the correctness of this. In these great economic empires which have grown through the inevitable operation of natural laws to such power and influence over the lives of millions of workers and consumers, the public trust involved in these private offices becomes as great as, if not greater than, the public trust involved in public office.

For a long time the utilities—railroads, ferries, electric power and light companies, etc.—have been said by the courts to be subject to direct governmental regulation, either because they are natural monopolies or, for other reasons, because the public is in a condition of helplessness under their management. But in other lines of business, the public was supposed by the law to be sufficiently protected by competition between units.

But as business units naturally became greater and more powerful, this protection for labor and consumers grew less and less effective.

Industry was too slow in seeing that, if it did not of itself recognize a duty to protect its public, the rule of the public utilities would be applied to all business—increasing governmental regulation even to the point of government ownership if regulation should fail to do the trick.

This collection of 50 leading business opinions seems to recognize something like this, with varying degrees of emphasis and clarity. For that reason, it is something of an eyeopener to me.

The encouraging thing about this is that precisely this reasoning was at the bottom of the first New Deal and still is the belief of many very prominent third New Dealers, including, as I believe, the president. If that is so and business and the administration are at last thinking the same thoughts and speaking the same language, it is about the best news possible for all who are hoping and praying for prosperity.

Furthermore, regardless of whether you like Mr. Roosevelt, he can't be denied the credit for jarring industry into this way of thinking. It is the only logic on which business or the capitalist or profits system—democracy itself—can save itself in the face of overwhelming popular tides which are surging not only in this country, but everywhere in the world.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

Robbin Coons, our Hollywood columnist, is in New York for two weeks to see what movie activities are like in the east.

NEW YORK—It's your Broadway, and it's my Broadway—tum, tum, tum—it's your Broadway and mi-i-ine.

You're right, Sophie Tucker. That song you've been coon-shouting for two years now is right too.

But Sophie darling, while you've been shouting at Ben Marden's Riviera overlooking the cool Hudson, I've been burning up Broadway.

I mean my feet have been burning up Broadway, or to be exact, vice versa.

But hear me, Sophie, and listen to reason. If you're so crazy-mad about Broadway you can have it. Your part of it, and mine too. I insist on it. Except—

Well, about one night a year I want to reserve gawking privileges. It's the hick in me, Sophie. It's funny how New York and especially Broadway—always brings it out.

Last night was hot. Those million lights were hot, too, burning crazy rainbows and white spots on the eyes.

I meandered along, stopping to gawk. Everybody else did, too. Broadway's a great street for hicks, Sophie.

Like the kid in "Room Service," I never saw so many orange and pineapple juice stands in my life. They've multiplied like guinea pigs since my last time out. And dime-a-dance joints, and auction sales, and shoe-shine boys, and pencil-venders, and legless beggars with frozen pathetic smiles.

The picketing business has picked up, too. I saw more pickets than sandwichmen. And I stood a half hour, amazed, as a youthful picket waved a sign quoting the Bible, Omar Khayyam, the Talmud, Shakespeare and Mother Goose (in turn) to justify a strike.

But I saw true love, too, on your big street. At Loew's State, of all places. Jackie (The Kid) Coogan was there, in person. I couldn't tell, from the lobby display, if it was Coogan or Betty Grable or Charlie Chaplin, but I figured at last it must be Coogan.

And the most touching thing, Sophie. A big telegram from Betty was right there in the lobby. "Jackie darling," it said, "if Broadway loves you half as much as I do you'll have a record week at Loew's State. Hurry home. Betty."

Well, I staggered away, Sophie—as far away as possible. As I said before, it's your Broadway—not mine.

Step-Girls Cause Friction

By VIRGINIA LEE

How long is one supposed to put up with stepdaughters, asks a wife who married a widower with two young girls—19 and 21. This wife complains that her husband insists upon going to see his daughters and that they make trouble all the time and sass her by saying that her husband was their father before he was her (the wife's) husband. They think they have a right to be in their dad's home, and there is plenty of friction, with the husband standing up for his children and the wife feeling that she and her child have no rights.

Stepchildren often are a cross to their stepparents, my dear, and both must have tolerance and be not only willing, but eager, to meet the other more than half way.

It is perfectly true, of course, that this man was the girls' dad long before you entered the picture. They have a right not only to their father's love, but to his protection. Try to rid your mind of all prejudices.

The girls probably hated the idea of anyone—no matter how lovely—taking their mother's place. They resented the idea of their dad's loving anyone else. The only way you could have met the situation successfully was to have sympathized with them and tried in every possible way to win them over. They may be fresh and hateful, as you say. If they are, your task is that much harder. But you married him knowing he had these two girls, and if I had been in your place I would have tried, if possible, to gain their approbation to the match before I married.

Then look at your husband's side of it. A man cannot help loving his own children, and he has a right to and they have a right to his love. You know how you love your child and how hurt you are when he is slighted, as you say he is. Then be just and try not only to help the girls to get their rights, but go even further. Take their part and try to treat them as their mother would have done.

I don't say you can win them over, but you can try, and you will be much happier if you don't feel sorry for yourself and blame them for everything. Why don't you plan little things for the girls and suggest to their father that you do such and so? Even the attempt will make a difference. I feel sure that if you want to save your home you will have to do this, and I hope you make the effort, and you have my very best wishes for your success.

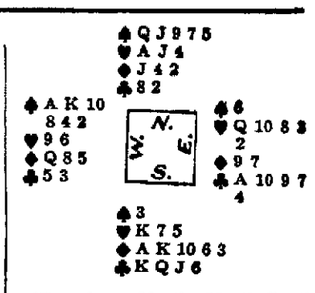
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BIDDING BEGETS PLAY

Many of the most interesting plays are the sequel to bad bidding which results in the hand being played by the wrong side, the wrong member of the side or perhaps by the right player at the wrong declaration. A fair share of such developments grow out of the failure of some player to make a business double which would net a rich penalty score, preferring instead to make a bid which may put the side into a questionable tract.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North and East passed on this deal and South called 1-Diamond, which West overcalled with 1-Spade. North passed and East bid 2-Clubs, South 2-Diamonds, West 2-Spades and North 3-Diamonds. The bidding ended there. North should have doubled West's 2-Spade bid, but preferred to assist his partner's diamonds.

The spade K was cashed and followed by the heart 9. The J was played from dummy, East covered with the Q and South took with the K. In order to gain two entries to dummy, South led a low diamond. West won and led a heart to the A. The spade Q was led, declarer intending to toss off his losing heart. Instead, East came in with a trump, so that his partner could hold the spade A. He read South for one more heart and wanted to prevent declarer getting the discard. As a result South lost one spade, one diamond, one heart and two clubs.

If decalcomanias do not stick readily to painted furniture, first go over the parts to which they are to be applied with white shellac. Let the shellac dry before applying the designs.

Steaming is a good way to cook vegetables, as it reduces the loss of minerals and vitamins. It is also economical because you can cook several different vegetables at a time.

Blemish Treatment Offered

By JULIET SHELBY

Central Press Writer on Beauty

Recently we have had many inquiries asking for the best method of clearing up whiteheads. These blemishes certainly will mar the loveliest complexion, so it is very important to clear them up as soon as they appear.

Pore refining is the first treatment that you should give yourself if you have this problem. And to bring about any really satisfactory improvement you should do two things. First cleanse your skin thoroughly every day, and second, stimulate the circulation.

Use a cleansing cream and follow it with a skin freshener. You may use soap and water if you prefer, but be sure that you have rinsed off every particle of soap. Now you want to relax your pores so the deposits will come out.

Here is an excellent way of doing this: Use heat after you have applied a cream or facial oil. Dip two clean towels in very hot water and wring them out. The towels should be steaming. Cover your face with the towel and leave it on a few minutes. Keep changing your towels as they cool off, continuing this routine until your face is flushed.

When your skin is thoroughly warm and relaxed, gently press the accumulations out. If they do not dislodge at once do not try to force them out. You might bruise or scratch your skin.

Circulation Important.

The circulation stimulation is just as important in your cure as the cleansing, because not only will it hasten the disappearance of the blemishes that you have, but it will be a great help in keeping your skin clear later on.

Take a large piece of absorbent cotton and dip it in ice water. Wring it out and make a firm pad.

Moisten your pad with some astringent lotion into which you have dropped an ice cube. If you have no favorite lotion, try witch hazel. It is excellent when cooled and diluted by ice. The lotion will help close your pores and will have a refreshing and exhilarating effect on your skin.

Using your cotton, pat your face briskly in an upward, outward direction, starting at the chin line and at the side of the mouth. Keep doing this over and over and keep your pad cold.

Dry your face with an absorbent towel. If you are going out use one of the antiseptic lotions such as calamine lotion before putting on your makeup.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Dicky sprang to his feet with a smothered objurgation as Katie poured out her excited message.

"What the devil!" he said aloud. "Did you say a cop, Katie? What kind of cop, the Sag Harbor policeman or—"

"Naw!" Katie replied. "Dees a state trooper, und I tink he beeg boss himself."

My husband and I exchanged quick glances. If the captain of the state troopers, who had rendered us signal service on various occasions and who knew of our affiliations with the diplomatic secret service, was in the kitchen, then something of grave importance was afoot.

"Did he ask for Mrs. Graham or for me, Katie?" Dicky asked.

"He says Meesis Graham first," Katie replied promptly, "und den he say, 'By any chance ees Meester Graham home, or is he in the city?' I told him sure ting you here, and he say he like to see you, too."

Captain In Hurry.

"That was very kind of him, Katie," my husband said gravely, and Katie giggled a bit uncertainly.

"Vot I tell heem?" she asked. "He tell me not to waste any time on the way counting stars, but to get back qveeck. He say he in hurry."

"Tell him we'll be right there," he said. But when she had rushed back to the kitchen, he put a restraining hand on my sleeve.

"We haven't any idea what this is," he said. "Don't you think it might be wise to guard against anybody else in the house overhearing something which might startle them?"

"I'll run up to Katherine right away, and tell her not to let Mother Graham, Bill, Hank or the small boys downstairs until further notice. She'll have no trouble. Most of them are asleep by now."

"I agree with you on that score," he said. "I'll wait for you here, and we'll go out together."

Madge Senses Panic.

He stopped abruptly and struck his right fist into the palm of his other hand.

"It it should be—" he muttered. "No—they wouldn't dare, but — you never know. Look here, old Dear," he said in louder tones. "I've changed my mind. I would better interview this fellow first, and find out what it's all about."

I saw that there was fear, stark panic in his eyes, and again ghostly fingers trailed ice down my spine.

What was it that Dicky feared so much, for I saw only too clearly that he was interpreting this visit from the state trooper in terms personal to himself? Whatever it was, he feared to have me share it.

There was no use in protest, so I only said quietly as if I had noticed nothing amiss:

"As you think best, Dicky. I'll go up to Katherine now, and come down later."

Pretends Not to Hear.

I purposely put that in as I was rushing toward the staircase, and pretended not to hear his call of "No, don't come down. It won't be necessary." But when I had almost awakened Faith by my impetuous rushing in upon Katherine, I went down the kitchen stairs, not stealthily, but in matter of fact fashion, and entered the kitchen where the captain of the state troopers and Dicky were standing facing each other tensely. They evidently had just met and Dicky had had no time to take him away from the kitchen.

"My errand is primarily with Mrs. Graham," the captain was saying, "although, of course, you are to be present. But—" his eyes strayed expressively to Jim and Katie standing in the background.

Offers Her Study.

"I think you would better come into my study, Captain," I said easily. Then I turned to Katie:

"Katie, will you prepare some coffee, sandwiches and little cakes, put them on trays, service for three, and wait here until I call you?"

"I have a pleasant memory of your trays, Mrs. Graham," the captain said, and I spoke quickly to Dicky.

"Take him along to the study, Dicky," I said, "and I'll be there directly."

When they had gone, I turned to Jim.

"This is most important, Jim," I said. "Both you and Katie are to stay here in the kitchen until I send for you."

"I understand, and we'll stay right here," he replied, and I knew he did understand my fear of Katie's propensity for listening to things which were not her affair.

Food, plates and silver are arranged in attractive, orderly fashion. Napkins are placed one overlapping the other, so only one at a time is picked up. Plates are stacked next to the main dish of the meal. No wonder the guests enjoy helping themselves.

And the menu? Easy-to-prepare but appetizing. Only foods that can be eaten with fork or fingers are included: A salmon cucumber aspic loaf garnished with gay tomato slices. Potato chips. Assorted relishes. Buttered finger rolls. Raspberry tarts. Coffee.

Our illustrated 32-page booklet gives charts showing correct table service for buffets, formal and informal dinners, dessert bridge. How to entertain graciously, be both correct and "different."

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 16.

AFFAIRS OF major importance are among the auguries found in this day's astrological prospects. There should be much stirring in both the private and the business lives. They seem to operate under a very expanding influence, with elation, ambition and enlarged vision centering in the direction of benevolence and high philanthropic fruition.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday is is are confronted by a year of adventure, with expansive, ambitious and noble enterprises claiming attention. There should be great fulfilments and cherished rewards. These may be in social or romantic attachments of culminations, giving much pleasure and gratification. But business may meet friction, postponements or disappointments.

A child born on this day may have a very magnanimous, generous and proud nature, with decided ambitions in the way of human welfare and alleviation. In such avenues it may attain high esteem and public renown.

Paraguay's leading industry is cattle raising.

Chopped dates and peanut butter mixed to a paste make a delicious filling for sandwiches.

When baking a custard pie the oven should be hot for the first 10 minutes so that liquid will not soak through the crust. Then reduce heat or custard will boil.
